120,000 Homeless

Nixon Tours Flood Area, Death Toll Climbs To 80

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The death toll in one of the most destructive storms in the history of the Eastern Seaboard stood at 80 today and President Nixon flew into a city in the heart of the devestation.

More than 120,000 people have been driven from their homes by the weeklong rains and flooding.

Nixon, accompanied by newsman, left the presidential retreat at Camp David, Md., by helicopter and made an aerial tour of areas of Maryland, Virginia and Pennsylvania. He then landed at Harrisburg, the Pennsylvania capital, where a quarter of the city was under water and 7,000 of the 68,000 residents were evacuated to higher ground.

The worst was yet to come along the Susquehanna River Basin of Pennsylvania and Maryland as record-breaking crests surged downstream.

But it appeared that the "major disaster" feared by some officials was not developing along the Ohio River at Pittsburgh.

The Ohio crested at 35 feet, 10 above flood stage, about dawn and then began receding. Swirling waters covered the park at the tip of Pittsburgh's famous Golden Triangle and crept up to the business district. But there was little evidence of the disastrous flooding that struck other states. Flooding was still predicted for some West Virginia and Ohio sections of the river.

Thousands of volunteers spent the night caring for the homeless in schools, hospitals, armories and even a race track that served as rescue centers. Others searched for the missing and sandbagged holes in dikes along hundreds of miles of riverfront.

Anxious officials watched flood control dams bulge under the pressure of record water levels.

Damage was immense. Gov. Milton J. Shapp estimated the cost to Pennsylvania at more than $1 billion. Gov. Marvin Mandel of Maryland said he had never seen such destruction in his life. Gov. Linwood Holton said the damage to Virginia was $160 million, making the storm the most costly in the state's history. The minimum damage estimate in New York state was $24 million, including $17 million in Allegany County.

The four states plus Florida were declared by President Nixon to be disaster areas.

But the picture was not uniformly bleak. The rains that for a week soaked the Northeast from Virginia to New York subsided. Tropical storm Agnes which created the disaster was absorbed by another weather system over central Pennsylvania and torrential downpours turned into occasional showers.

Water levels stabilized in southern New York and were receding at some upriver towns in Pennsylvania.

In some areas, especially western Pennsylvania, flood control dams were preventing more widespread damage.

But even as the waters receded in some areas, new problems arose. The water filtration system in Richmond, Va., was knocked out and the storage supply was expected to be exhausted by early today. After that the city's 220,000 residents will have to depend on water distributed at firehouses from four pure springs near the city.

Water supplies were also low at 10 Pennsylvania cities, including Harrisburg, York, Reading, Lancaster and WilkesBarre.

PORTAGEVILLE — Gary Wayne Hornburg, 18, of Marston and four juveniles were arrested at 12:30 a.m. Friday by Police Chief Joe Moore, who said they were in Hornburg's car and had a case of malt liquor. Moore said two of the boys jumped out of the car and ran but were apprehended later at Jaywye.

One of the juveniles, reportedly from Chicago, is suspected of attempted rape of a 12-year-old girl at the horse show Thursday night.

The juveniles were released to juvenile officer Jimmy Joe Bloomfield. Hornburg was fined $70 in magistrate court on charge of supplying intoxicating liquor to minors.

Stoddard To Vote On Jail Issue

BLOOMFIELD -- Upon closer examination of their jail building, Stoddard County officals have decided to let the taxpayers determine whether the county should proceed with remodeling plans on the old structure or build a new one in the future.

Engineers have reported that $83,000 is necessary to remodel the existing two-story building, with no provisions made to increase prisoner capacity. A new structure, built on county land and designed to house twice as many prisoners, would cost approximately $130,000.

The Stoddard County court has announced plans to let citizens vote in the August primary on a special 10-cent levy per $100 valuation for one year only. If the levy is passed, approximately $58,000 in revenue would be available, in addition to present county funds and a promised grant from the Bootheel Law Enforcement Assistance Council, for construction of a new jail which would meet federal standards. By doing this, the county would remain essentially debt free.

In their report, the court also explained that should the existing jail be closed, costs of housing and transporting prisoners to other jails would be about $25,000 per year.

Representative Spain is presently serving his third term as a representative from Stoddard County.

In commenting upon his candidacy, Rep. Spain said, "Missouri needs modern laws to deal with such issues as crime, drug abuse, pollution, consumer protection and penal rehabilitation. Spain said he would bring "new energy and enthusiam to bear against the state's great and complex problems."

"It is time," he said, "for the attorney general's office to become more than a house counsel for state agencies. The attorney general should become the lawyer for the people, helping them solve the problems concerning their daily lives.

As a member of the Missouri House of Representatives, Rep. Spain has sponsored or co-sponsored bills dealing with drug reform, air and water polution and regulation of insurance holding companies...

Burlison Spending Criticized

HOUSE SPRINGS — E. E. (Ed) Faulkenberry of House Springs, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress from the 10th District, has sharply criticized his opponent, Rep. Bill D. Burlison of Cape Girardeau for "seriously abusing" the taxpayers by using their money to pay his reelection staff $9,000 a month.

Faulkenberry also charged Burlison with using his free postal privileges to mail political literature.

Faulkenberry said Burlison's personal payroll for the last half of 1971 was $52,585 for 13 employes. The amount does not include any possible pension benefits or any increases in personnel and payments for the primary.

The list includes Lenzie Beck of Sikeston, paid $4,549.98. Also on the list are Pat Benton of Cape Girardeau, $2,650; Harriet Clair, $3,550; Don Dickerson, a Cape Girardeau attorney, $3,256; Minna Divers, a secretary in the Washington office, $6,049; Richard Dugal, a field secretary in Farmington, $2,500; Bradford Haynes, $500; James Herod, a field secretary in Cape Girardeau, $5,146; Susan Mickland, $3,550; John Nutter, an administrative assistant in Washington, $4,750; Sue Prosser, a former secretary from Delta, $9,583; Millie Rhyne, secretary in Cape Girardeau, $3,002; and Queeny Walls, Washington office, $3,500.

"I am positive these figures will double for the first half of this year," Faulkenberry said. He added that Burlison's payroll records for the first half of this year are not yet available.

Faulkenberry charged that most of these people "drew large salaries from the taxpayers for the sole purpose of prepetuating Burlison's political future." He called the situation "outrageous."

Faulkenberry promised that, if elected to Congress, he would initiate a system of unpaid volunteers to do the work Burlison is paying for.

A JOB WELL DONE

In addition to the troops, U. S. ground disengagement in South Vietnam is bringing home the American Red Cross clubmobile girls. Since 1965, these girls have provided comfortable recreation centers for our servicemen in remote combat areas.

Traveling by helicopter, jeep and truck, the clubmobile girls boosted morale with their programs. Commanders whose units had seen heavy fighting usually asked the Red Cross to send workers. At their arrival, the men's spirits lifted immediately.

Clubmobile girls, mostly recent college graduates, conducted quiz shows on things like movies and sports. Teams of servicemen were panel members competing for high scores. After the games, the Red Cross workers often helped in ladling out "chow," talking to the men and generally providing a touch of home.

During their seven years in Vietnam, clubmobile teams traveled over 2 million miles across some of the world's most hostile terrain. Frequently they had to run for underground bunkers when the bases came under rocket attacks.

The Red Cross had about 125 recreation workers in Vietnam during the peak of U. S. involvement. Through the seven years, over 600 young women served 12-month tours. They were so successful that the Defense Department has asked the Red Cross to continue the clubmobile program in Korea.

Perhaps there is no greater tribute to the clubmobile girls' job than the Certificate of Application sent by Commanding General Creighton W. Abrams:

The young women who were the core of this program's success contributed materially to the improvement of the morale of servicemen assigned to Vietnam. Their personal dedication and attitude reflected favorably on the American Red Cross and assisted the commander in the field in the accomplishment of his mission.

DID YOU KNOW THAT

Women drivers -- often bearing the brunt of unkind words from many of their male counterparts -- now comprise nearly 42 per cent of the licensed drivers in the United States.

According to the Bureau of Public Roads, the number of women drivers has increased from 15 to 44.2 million, up a whopping 200 per cent since 1950.

Almost half of the 76,688,000 reported automobile breakdowns in 1968 were caused by failures in the car's electrical system. Dead batteries were the biggest culprits. Drivers, trying to extend the life of their car's batter were usually sadder, but wiser after the tow truck departed.

Rather than stretch your luck, when the first signs of a weak battery are noticed, replace it now and leave the trudge to the service station for someone else.

A new material -- instant dry reflective striping compound -- has been introduced for pavement center line, lane and edge application. The material dries in 10 seconds under average conditions and eliminates the need to use traffic cones and barriers.

Compare the 10-second drying time to the new material with the 180-second to 30-minute drying time for other commonly -used striping material and you can see why traffic engineers request the new material.

According to the manufacturer, the compound's instant - dry characteristics also bring obvious advantages in the areas of traffic safety and convenience. Use of the material eliminates lane-blocking and traffic need not be stopped or slowed to a crawl.

The compound is pressure -fed from tanks or drums into a heat chamber on the applicator rig. Heated, the free-flowing material is then fed into a spray gun which applies it to the road surface. Tiny glass beads are pre-mixed in the compound to provide reflectivity. From one to three colors can be applied simultaneously.

As election time approaches, the word from Washington is that the American economy is looking better.

Well it might. There is no excuse for a depression in the United States.

Prosperity is based upon productive capacity of a nation, plus the efficiency of distribution of goods.

Production and distribution are so closely related that they are considered by some economists to be a singular factor in national wealth.

Unemployment and lay-offs by major manufacturers are widely publicized. However, distribution failures are rarely mentioned in the news.

Yet in a surplus productive society, distribution failure always precedes production cuts and industrial unemployment.

In a real sense, distribution failure, be it in automobiles or television sets, is an advertising failure extending from the largest manufacturer to the smallest retailer.

The ultimate factor in national prosperity is the local retailer. It is his selling - largely his local newspaper advertising - which creates employment and lower production costs.

When local advertising anywhere helps the merchant to sell a new home or a new coat, it affects employment and buying power in New York, Dallas, or San Francisco.

According to Mr. A. M. Tewksbury, writing in the Oregon Voter Digest, "Cuba, the communist paradise and one of the world's leading sugar producers, is still rationing sugar and has had to cut the ration even lower recently. Cigars are rationed too in the land of famed Havana cigar. Thanks to communist mismanagement, sugar production is less than 5 million tons, just half of Castro's long trumpeted goal of 10 million tons. Under Castro, the Cuban economy is not just stagnant, but actually going down hill. Cuba'a GNP has declined 9 per cent between 1958 and 1970. In sharp contrast, 18 major Latin-American countries averaged a GNP gain of 24 per cent in the same period even though many of them are governed by the military. Castro has been an economic disaster for Cuba."

GLASS MAY PAVE TOMORROW'S ROADS

Recent research by the University of Missouri has come up with an intersting use for old throw-away glass bottles.

According to the university, if all goes well, we'll intentionally be driving over broken glass. Seen as a way to help solve roadbuilding as well as pollution problems, the researchers think glass might make a good aggregate material in bituminous concrete for roads.

Challenged by a professor of ceramic engineering to pretend they worked for a glass company and had to find a solution to the problem of what to do with the great number of throw-away bottles, undergraduate students in the class suggested the broken glass might make good aggregate.

After experimenting to determine the best size of glass fragment to use and the proper type of asphalt binder, the material was submitted to road testing.

A small surface path was made with the new material in a parking lot on the campus. According to the report, the test stook up well enough to traffic and bad weather to warrant further experimentation.

To gain additional test data, the university researchers are working with the street department in Rolla to lay a strip of glassasphalt pavement 600 feet long and 20 feet wide on the university campus. The strip will be tested for durability, skid resistance and wear on tires before the final report will be issued.

Still too early in the experiment to evaluate the results, indications are there is a good chance the glass will make a suitable aggregate. If this is confirmed, and if cities and counties can find an economical way of gathering and grinding the throw-away bottle into usable sizes, perhaps glass will pave tomorrow's roadways.

THE STONES RETURN

The Rolling Stones rock band is introducing youth culture to the Age of Ticketron. Young people have stormed the computerized ticket - selling agencies before several early stops on the English group's current 31-city tour of the United States and Canada. All appearances to date have been sellouts. The riot-causing potential among disappointed ticket-seekers was minimized because Ticketron's agencies are scattered around shopping centers and downtown stores. But there have been melees outside concerts in progress.

If the rock fans had to line up at the concert site for tickets "they'd level the place," said Barry Imhoff, head of FM Productions, which is handling ticket operations for the tour. At the opening concert June 3 in Vancouver, there was a riot outside the concert hall caused by unrequited and unticketed music-lovers. Eight policemen and a dozen young people were injured.

An experiment in mail-order ticketry for the June 14 San Diego concert went awry. Police said hundreds of tickets were counterfeited and scalped for as high as $50 apiece. After the 16,000-seat San Diego Sports Arena was filled, ticket-holders left outside rampaged and 21 persons were injured. Concert promoters are relying on a lottery drawing to allocate the 54,000 tickets to the three Stones sessions in New York's Madison Square Garden, and hoping for a peaceful outcome.

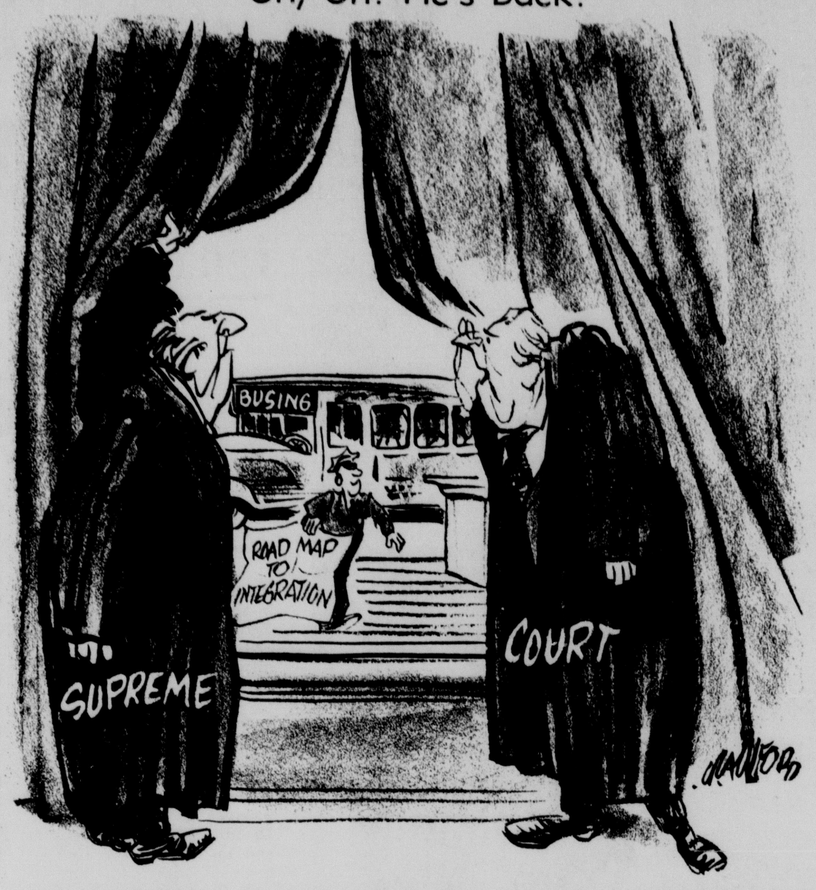

More security is the promoters' answer to the violence problem. There will be at least 200 police to keep the peace for the largest crowd on tour, which will gather Tuesday, July 4, in Washington's Robert F. Kennedy Stadium. The 46,500 tickets, which will produce a one-night gross of around $250,000, were sold out in three days in late May, except for a few hundred $10 reserved seats.

When the Rolling Stones last toured the United States in 1969, their final concert at Altamont, Calif., destroyed the Age of Aquarius myth created at the relatively peaceful Woodstock festival four months earlier. The free concert drew 300,000 people to the Altamont drag strip 50 miles east of Oakland, Calif. An 18-year-old boy was stabbed and beaten to death in front of the bandstand; three others were killed in accidents on the periphery. This time the Stones are performing in smaller, walled arenas, heavily defended by police.

ANOTHER NEEDED ELECTION LAW CHANGE

Present primary election laws in Missouri require that, except where voting machines are used, names of candidates for each office be rotated. This means that in a small precinct where there are perhaps not over a hunderd or so votes, the printer of the ballots for Monroe County, for instance, will have to stop his press every eight or nine ballots for the Democratic governors race, and move the name at the bottom of the list to the top.

The provision was originally made on the theory that many people neither knew nor had heard of some of the candidates, and that the person whose name appeared at the top would probably get more votes as the voter would mark the first name he or she came to.

With news so widely disseminated as it is today, this theory belongs to the horse and buggy days and should be forgotten.

A fair way, we believe, is to place the candidates names on the ballots in the order in which they filed.

It would cut down ballot printing costs, make counting of votes more accurate and easier, save the taxpayers money, while having little if any effect on who is nominated.

Secretary of State Jim Kirkpatrick suggested this change, but the Legislature failed to act on it.

We hope the next one does.

Precincts using voting machines cannot rotate the names. If it is fair in those precincts it would be fair here and elsewhere where machines are not used. At any rate, the same law should apply to all precincts in Missouri.

THOSE DIFFICULT LETTERS

(To the parents of a child)

Dear Friends:

A few days ago I was accosted by a poor old woman. One could see that she was hungry — tired, ill. As I looked into her poor, withered face I wondered why a kind Providence hadn't called her home to peace and rest — why she was left to suffer here.

But those are things we cannot answer. It is all in Divine hands. And I like to think when the young are called that perhaps they are favored — perhaps they are called to add a spot of beauty — a needed flower in the Heavenly gardens — a blossom that will grow in greater beauty there.

Sincerely Yours,

EXPENSIVE WORDS

After many false starts and much fumbling and stumbling, a scotchman finally proposed marriage to the light of his life. After she accepted, he became strangely silent and said not a word.

The girl asked, "Aren't you going to say anything?"

"I've said enough already," the Scot said sadly.

RUSSIAN ANNOYANCES

"The traveling White House Press corps clapped and cheered as their chartered airplane left the ground at Kiev, ending eight days of sojourn in the Soviet Union." Robert E. Baskin, chief of the Washington Bureau of the Dallas Morning News, thus summed up his feeling and that of his colleagues as they left the Soviet Union after the summit conferences had ended. "We were all weary of the country," said the veteran correspondent. "At first it had been intriguing and interesting. But then it became boring and depressing." He complained of restrictions and annoyances that "one would not find in a capitalistc country."

Life in Moscow, Mr. Baskin wrote, is a pretty barren thing. He found little gaiety in the lives of the people. One of the more boring experiences the newsmen had was a half hour lecture on Lenin as they visited the tomb where the mortal remains of the old Bolshevik remain on public display. Correspondent Baskin described Lenin as "that violently radical man." It was an adequate phrase.

The correspondents were confused about the relative value of the ruble. The Soviet government says it's worth a dollar and a quarter and that is what one must pay. But, added Mr. Baskin, the rate is four rubles to one dollar. Such is life in the Soviet Union.

It has been the contention of this columnist for many years that life simply is not normal in a highly socialized state. The state is all powerful, the minds of its citizens thoroughly washed with propaganda that enslaves them. With all their faults, the capitalistic nations still offer the good life, the only type of life that freedom loving people want. If we have grievances we can air them. They are not always corrected but at least we can make ourselves heard and not go to jail for having sounded off.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — The White House has quietly started twisting arms on Capitol Hill to authorize tougher measures against marijuana violators.

For months, a fierce debate has raged inside the Nixon Administration between those who want to legalize marijuana and those who favor a marijuana crackdown. The crackdown crowd has now won.

The word has gone out from the White House to put the heat on Congress to pass two measures that would assure continued prosecution of marijuana users.

The instructions were delivered by White House aide Walt Minnick to Donald Miller, chief counsel for the Justice Department's Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs.

Miller immediately called representatives from several federal departments behind closed doors on June 13 to plan the lobbying campaign.

The principal measure is an international drug control treaty which would obligate the U.S. to make possession of certain drugs, including marijuana, "punishable offenses."

The other measure is an enabling law, which would be needed to clear the way for Congress to approve the treaty.

The treaty, known as "The Convention on Psychotropic Substances," would empower the Justice Department to control drugs regardless of the medical recommendations from the Health, Education and Welfare Department.

DRUG CONTROVERSY

This would directly contravene a drug abuse law, enacted by Congress two years ago, giving HEW the power to decide which drugs are dangerous.

A number of HEW officials are dismayed over the White House action. They believe HEW, as the scientific and medical arm of government, should rule on dangerous drugs.

The President's own National Commission on Marijuana and Drug Abuse has recommended that penalties for personal possession of marijuana be abolished.

BNDD officials, however, are sternly opposed to relaxing any of the laws against marijuana use. Their views were underscored in a recent speech by John Ingersoll, the hard-line BNDD director. He told a group California policemen that the legalization of marijuana and other drugs might mean the fight against drug abuse was "lost altogether."

He added: It is our duty not only to protect the public in the streets from vicious criminals but to protect the public from harmful ideas."

Footnote: HEW officials believe the White House deliberately began lobbying for the drug control treaty on the eve of the election campaign, figuring it might be difficult for Members of Congress to oppose it in an election year. But Minnick explained to us that the timing had been determined by the Senate Judiciary Committee's schedule. The committee must process the enabling legislation.

BLUECOATS VS REDSKINS

It has been many moons since the bluecoats won their last skirmish with the redskins in the struggle for the West. But the federal government is still crowding the Indians.

Back in 1865, the government signed a treaty with the Winnebago tribe granting them land "for use and occupancy forever." As late as 1944, the Army Engineers -- descendants of the bluecoats -- pledged that they would never appropriate Indian lands without prior tribal consent.

But now the federal authorities want to build a recreation project on Winnebago land in Iowa and Nebraska. Without regard for past treaties and pledges, the government took the land away from the Indians for the Oxbow Lake project.

Nor that the friendly Winnebago mind opening their homeland to their white brothers for fishing and picknicking. But the tribe would like to retain the title and collect the income from park concessions.

Footnote: Congressional sources tell us that a House Appropriations Subcommittee may settle the issue, strictly for budgetary reasons, by turning down the $750,000 appropriation for the Oxbow project.

FBI and Alinsky

Saul Alinsky, the self-proclaimed "professional radical," died earlier this month. He would have been dismayed over the eulogies that appeared in several newspapers.

His popularity with more respectable reformers caused him recently to reassure his staff: "Don't worry, boys, we'll weather this storm of approval and come out as hated as ever."

He would be comforted to know, however, that the FBI at least regarded him as a menace. The G-men kept him under regular surveillance and tried to paint him red.

But the FBI file on him isn't convincing. Despite Alinsky's rabble-rousing, he was hardly a routine revolutionary. "I love this -----country," he kept on saying, "and we're (the common people) going to take it back."

Even the FBI had to acknowledge, in a typical entry, that Alinsky was as anti-communist as he was anti-establishment. An agent, quoting a speech Alinsky made in Claremont, Calif., wrote:

"Alinsky claimed that he has nothing but scorn for political and religious dogma, and his comments about religion were generally sarcastic. He claimed he has nothing but contempt for Communism and for 'professional liberals.'"

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Is He Stoppable? labor still battling for Humphrey or Kennedy

NEW YORK — It was fun city here the night before primary -- especially for George McGovern, candidate from the Coyote State. Mayor Lindsay slipped out of the city and the South Dakotan Senator had it all to himself except for Ted Kennedy who was downright campaigning for the Vice Presidential nomination.

So McGovern went to a party atop the Hotel Biltmore -- once the haunt of Tammany Hall's Carmine DeSapio. Nor was McGovern lacking in local color. He came to the whooping, singing, fraternal gathering with former Mayor Bob Wagner.

This was an unusual crowd for the gentleman from the West -- some 200 labor officials, some powerful, some politically puny.

It was the first such reception. It was his New York campaigners' retort to those who have been saying George McGovern has no rapport with labor. He did Monday night -- mostly with the old left-wing CIO crowd and some of their personable but militant second generation.

There were auto unionists, sandhogs, brewery people and influential men from the State, County and Municipal Employees and the men's clothing union. McGovern mixed with the melting pot's milieu. He was alien corn. But they loved it.

And he plunged into the crowd, shook hands, wilted in the non-air conditioned mugginess -- and promised to wipe out the Pay Board, appoint a union leader Secretary of Labor, open the White House to them, eliminate all traces of the Nixon administration and revamp the economy.

That is, if he's elected President. He made it crystal clear that he was now reaching for organized labor.

Speaking, as he often does, of himself in the third person, he said that it had been bruited by some that labor needed McGovern. Well, he added, he wanted it on the record that McGovern "needs labor."

For two weeks now he has been trying to impress this personally on AFL—CIO chief George Meany, who still is the power behind the strongest national political machine in the and -- Committee on Political Education (COPE).

Not knowing his way about "the movement," he had fumbled. He had directed his campaign coordinator Frank Mankiewicz and another aide to call the national AFL—CIO headquarters to say he'd like to talk to labor's president. Meany was abroad then. They did not try to get him on the transatlantic phone.

Knowledge of such modern equipment, it appears, is one of Hubert Humphrey's inner strengths. The former Vice President called Meany aboard the Queen Elizabeth last week and had a long and friendly talk with the hundreds of regional political committees "can make a difference."

Theirs was a private conversation but it's obvious HHH sought Meany's support for a "stop McGovern" drive. Pragmatic labor collectively is more than a politician. It is a mathematician.

At this moment labor's national headquarters simply doesn't believe George McGovern has the nomination. They're not saying he doesn't have it. They're saying "the ball game isn't over until the last out in the ninth."

Officially they're neutral. Behind the scenes there's disparate thought -- quite passionate in some circles. Some of the top political minds inside labor see a McGovern-Kennedy ticket. They say Ted has really wanted second place for a long time now for lots of reasons including the fact that three of the past five Presidents have been Vice Presidents.

Such a ticket would have strong support from the burgeoning peace bloc inside the AFL-CIO, from powerful sectors of the Teamsters brotherhood especially in the Central and Western States, and even in "parts of Richard Daley's camp."

But there are those in powerful -- and in the very highest -- labor circles who say that McGovern just doesn't have the delegate count.

These men believe McGovern's California delegation doesn't "even" match his own reform representation standards. And that the courts have knocked out other McGovern votes. And that "a new ball game will start shortly."

They're still saying there will be some deadlock. They know that Ted Kennedy is set to fly down. His wife Joan has sets of rooms reserved. They say Kennedy, Humphrey, Muskie and miscellaneous blocs of votes from such strange corners as George Wallace and Shirley Chisholm can block McGovern. Then it will be up to "Ted or Hubert."

So last Monday evening may have been the last bit of fun George McGovern will have for the duration. He has a lot of collective bargaining to do with Meany and company before he can win.

Hearnes Clears Desk; Signs Gas Tax Hike Bill

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has cleared his desk of all 225 bills passed by the Missouri legislature, signing 213 and vetoing 12. He also cut out five line items in earlier bills he signed.

In the final burst Friday, the governor signed 33 bills and vetoed six, including two that were duplications.

The ones signed included several that caused major controversies in the 1972 legislature — a 2-cent a gallon gasoline tax increase, an income tax simplication measure, one to repeal the intangible property tax and some broad envirionmental control bills.

Last year the governor vetoed a 2-cent gas tax increase because it was not tied to a highway bond issue. This year efforts are being made to get a $730 million transportation bond issue on the ballot but it will be touch and go for the sponsors to get the necessary 90,000-plus signatures by the July 6 deadline.

A 2-cent increase in motor fuel taxes would produce about $50 million more a year for roads and streets. Eighty per cent of the total goes to the state, 15 per cent to cities and 5 per cent to counties.

The tax simplificiation bill makes Missouri state income tax definitions conform with federal language and sponsors said it would save millions for small taxpyers.

The intangible tax repealer would become effective in 1975. At the August primary, however, voters will have a chance to speed that up if they vote for a constitutional amendment that includes a similar repealer, plus tax relief for the elderly and repeal of the property tax on household goods.

All the intangible tax revenue goes to local units of government.

Two major envirionmental bills beef up the air pollution laws and the powers of the Air Conservation Commission and require a state Health Division permit for any solid waste disposal facility, such a dump or a sanitary landfill.

Cities and counties could levy a tax up to 10 cents on the $100 valuation to finance such facilities if the voters approved.

What's The Law?

Case Of Delayed Grand Opening

By Jack Strauss, LL. B.

While Emma was lovely to look at, she was a sight to see when she entered a private hospital complaining of terrible stomach pains. Immediately, the doctors decided that her appendix had to come out. And, with no loss of time, her clothing was removed, she was handed a hospital gown and was given some medication in anticipation of the Grand Opening. Confetti, however, was not wasted. When the admitting officer realized that Emma lacked the $200 admission fee, the muchheralded Grand Opening was abruptly canceled. The hospital gown was taken back, she was handed her clothing and she was sent on her way still in pain.

Five hours later, a second hospital proved more humane. Without requiring any front money, Emma was taken in and her appendix was taken out.

Thereafter, Emma sued the first hospital for not performing the operation in the first place and for making her suffer in pain, unnecessarily, for five additional hours.

"A hospital," she complained incourt," is supposed to be hospitable.

"Not our hospital," was the answer. "We're a private institution. As such, we can choose our patients. And, since Emma didn't have the $200, we chose not to choose her. We acted within our rights."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you hold the hospital liable for Emma's delayed Grand Opening?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that while a private hospital may not be required to admit undesired patients, by taking Emma's clothing, giving her a hospital gown and administering medication to her, the hospital, physically and legally, had admitted her. Having done so, concluded the judge, it had a duty not to act unreasonably in having her removed from its premises. It could not toss her out while she was in pain and in need of treatment. (Based upon a 1965 Florida District Court of Appeals Decision)

Manford Pulls Out Of Race

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — State Sen. Donald Manford of Kansas City has withdrawn from the race for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor.

After filing late, he said he found many were already committed to support other candidates and could not help him with contributions.

"To run a statewide campaign costs a lot of money," he commented.

Manford, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, said he would devote his time instead to a campaigning for a governmental reorganization proposal which will be on the August primary ballot and to working for legislation to improve the state's budgetary procedures.

China Indifferent To Ending War, Kissinger Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger said today after returning from Peking that there is still no clear indication of Hanoi interest in serious negotiations to end the Vietnam war.

Kissinger said also in briefing newsmen at the White House that all major nations favor an end to the Indochina war, and that he did not ask China's leaders to intervene with Hanoi.

His 3½ days of talks with Premier Chou En-lai and other Chinese leaders was "primarily an exchange of views," and "not a request on our part to the People's Republic to do anything."

He said that, in some 18 hours of formal talks and another half-dozen hours of more informal chats, the primary purpose was to discuss U.S.Chinese questions and exchange views on international affairs. Both sides found the parley useful, he said.

Kissinger predicted "slow but steady progress" will be made in U.S.-Chinese trade, and he forecast steady if not spectacular progress in the coming months in setting up more cultural exchanges between the two countries

On the Vietnam issue, Kissinger agreed with Secretary of State William P. Rogers who had said earlier there was no clear sign yet of Hanoi interest in serious negotiations.

"We have not yet had any clear indication, but we are pursuing the subject and when we do have it we'll resume negotiations and it will be announced," Kissinger said.

He said Hanoi's leadership currently is reviewing its policy. The Nixon administration aim is to bring matters to a point where substantive diplomatic negotiations can be held, he said.

He said that, when serious negotiations do take place, it is the U.S. view that they should be between the United States and North Vietnam directly, at the Paris conference table or elsewhere.

He said the United States recognizes that Hanoi's leaders, having fought for so long for their cause, won't surrender their destiny to others by having others negotiate a settlement in their behalf.

Prior to the briefing by Kissinger, the White House issued a joint statement that said Kissinger and the Chinese leaders had held "extensive, earnest and frank" talks.

Mary Van Amburg of Creve Coeur was designated for the office of State Patrol in another bit of late business and Barbara Callaway of Savannah was elected chief justice of the supreme court. The new chief justice is a Federalist, and was elected through the Nationalist representatives had a majority on the seven-member court.

Hijacker Missing And Feared Dead

PERU, Ind. (AP) — A youthful gunman who switched planes in St. Louis when a car rammed the first jet he hijacked bailed out with $502,000 ransom early today after airline officials taught him how to operate the parachute. Police speculated he may not have jumped safely.

Not long after the man left the American Airlines jet, the jump zone was pinpointed by Air Force radar and authorities began a search of the rolling hills in this corn producing area.

State police said the gunman may have had difficulty bailing out and said there was a report bits of clothing and money were found in the airplane. Police speculated he may have tangled his clothing or parachute on the stairway ramp at the rear of the jet and fallen to his death.

As day broke searchers concentrated on Frances Slocum State Park at Mississinewa Reservoir.

Indiana state conservation officers launched boats onto the 12,830-acre flood control reservoir on the Wabash River.

The searchers were requested by radio reports from the communications control center at the Peru Police Department to "look for pieces of parachute" or any other evidence. "Please sweep the water completely," a radio message said.

Carpenter Withdraws

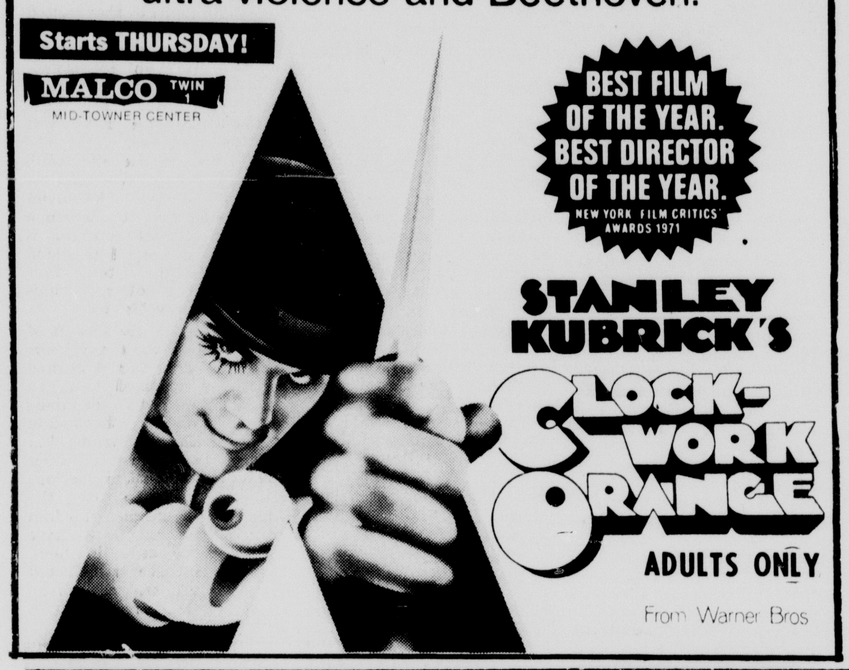

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Donald L. Carpenter, candidate for the Democratic nomination for state treasurer, said Friday he would withdraw from the Aug. 8 primary because of the press of business and the high cost of campaigning.

Carpenter, of St. Louis County, said he would throw his support to James Spainhower, another Democrat seeking the treasurer's post. "It is my considered opinion that Jim Spainhower is by far the most qualified man," he said.

"I find that running for office and carrying on a high level campaign is very costly and because I do not have the financial support of any monied groups, it would probably be very difficult to raise the funds that would be needed for a successful campaign," Carpenter said.

Ann Landers

Older Hubby Suspicions

Dear Ann Landers: I just came from the funeral of a good friend. He was only 56 at the peak of his career, a wonderful guy, beautiful family, the most attractive man in any group. There were many sad-eyed people at the service, saying very little to one another. But the unspoken message was clear: "What a tragedy that this productive, successful, delightful fellow was cut down in the prime of his life."

On the way home I rememberd another funeral --- one I attended a few months ago. The man was 90. He had once been a prominent person in the community --- useful, productive, successful and loved by all. He retired at about 75. His eyesight went bad and he developed crippling arthritis. By the time he was 80 he was confined to a wheelchair, almost blind, his memory was gone, most of his cronies had died and he was a lonely and sick old man --- a pathetic figure who was a drain on his only daughter's energy and financial resources. The last 15 years of his life were downhill all the way.

Recalling the old man made me feel less sad about my 56-year-old friend. There is somthing to be said for leaving the stage amid applause and cheers. I hope I'm lucky enought to die with my boots. on. --- Kentucky Musings.

Dear K.M.: Wouldn't it be wonderful if your old friend could have given his 15 years to your young friend? But life doesn't work that way and we must live out the years the good Lord gives us. Thanks for a provocative letter.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 33 years old, have been married for eight years and have two small children. My husband is ten years my senior -- a quiet man, a good provider who does not like people. Our social life consists of his brother and his wife and a cousin he was raised with. Occasionally he will let me invite a neighbor couple in, but not very often.

The problem is that I have signed up for a study group which meets at our church once a week from 8:00 til 10:00 p.m. My husband refused to join so I go with my sister-in-law. I've always known that I'm not very pretty. I'm presentable. Period. No man would look at me twice. My husband insists that every man in town wants me, including the study group leader who is our pastor.

When I come home from these study group meetings he gives me the third degree although he knows I went with my sister-in-law and came home with her. He also checks the speedometer on the car to make sure I didn't drive anywhere else. He is becoming increasingly suspicious for no reason.

I once read someplace that this is a sign of mental illness. Is it? If so, should I stop going to the study group to please him? Please advise me. ---E.S.A.

Dear E.S.A.: The symptoms you describe sound as if your husband might be mentally ill. Urge him to go for an evaluation. In the meantime, if you give up the study group it will not help him, so continue and enjoy yourself.

Dearn Ann Landers: I have four children under seven years of age. I seem to have enough laundry every day for at least one load -- sometimes two. For some reason this bothers my husband. He says his mother used to wash once a week and she had five kids. I keep telling him I'd rather do one or two loads a day than kill myself on Mondays. What do you say, Ann? -- Missouri Mule (His name for me.)

Dear M.: If you want to wash every day what's it to him? I presume you aren't telling him how to run his work day and he should not be telling you how to run yours.

Women Take Pill By Moon

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Once a month, when the moon is full, thousands of women in Mexico and Chile take an oral contraceptive developed by a Georgia doctor who says it is 90 to 95 per cent effective.

"It does away with the tyranny of taking a pill 365 days a year and reduces it to 12 times a year," said Dr. Robert B. Greenblatt of Augusta, developer of the once-a-month pill.

"Other countries are getting the advantage of it first," said Greenblatt, chairman of the endocrinology department of the Medical College of Georgia. "It's being used extensively in Mexico and Chile.

"It probably will be about 10 years before the Food and Drug Administration allows it in this country," the researcher said in a telephone interview. "It's not an ideal birth control pill, it's about 90 to 95 per cent effective" and has some side effects.

"But it's a satisfactory one, particularly for underdeveloped nations," Greenblatt said. "For example, say in Thailand or Taiwan, or in any country where you have great masses of illiterate people, how do you get them to take a pill every single day?

"The monthly pill, then, is a great boon for them. But how do you explain to them that they should take the pill on the 25th day of their menstrual cycle?

"So, you tell them to take it when the moon is full, so they'll take one once a month. The first month is hazardous for still getting pregnant. But when the body regulates itself to the pill, then it becomes effective," Greenblatt said.

"The pill contains both estrogen, which has a protracted effect so that it acts to prevent ovulation for the next month, and progesterone, which insures a period in the current month."

During latter stages of development several years ago, the monthly pill prevented pregnancy in all 138 trials in 40 Georgia women.

Most of his patients, Greenblatt said, were "enthralled" with not having to remember to take a pill a day.

Six Celebrate Birthdays

MATTHEWS — Two Canalou 4-H members of the community service group, Brenda and Lisa Wilkening; two adults, Mrs. Susie Hunt and Mrs. Louise Croom; and two patients at Sells Nursing Home, Mrs. Ethel Lord and Mrs. Ruth Morris, celebrated birthdays Wednesday at the nursing home.

The six honorees were seated at the birthday table and were served birthday cake. Mrs. Elmer Gruen led in singing "Happy Birthday."

Mrs. Steven Leroy Benson

Benson-Jordan

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ill. — Before a setting of arched candelabras and pink tapers flanked by arrangements of pink gladiolas and mums and bordered with potted ferns and sprays of palms, Janet Carol Jordan and Steven Leroy Benson exchanged wedding vows. The Rev. W. H. Worth, of Essex, Mo., uncle of the bride, performed the ceremony.

The double-ring ceremony was performed at 2:30 p.m. May 28 at Allison Prairie church of the Bretheran in Lawrenceville.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jordan of Gray Ridge, Mo. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Benson of Lawrenceville are parents of the groom.

The bride wore a gown of white bridal satin, featuring a close-fitted bodice and a jewel neckline, with a belted waistline. Large Victorian sleeves were gathered at the cap and into buttoned cuffs. Thirty tiny satin-covered buttons adorned the floor-length gown from neckline to hem. Softly gathered lace ruffling outlined the bodice front and the chapel-length train.

Matching lace trimmed the elbow length mantilla secured by a Camelot - style cap, ornamented with a hand-sewn, beaded full-bloom rose in each point and a single bud in the center, signifying the oneness of two lives united. The bride's gown and headpiece were fashioned by her aunt, Mrs. Louie Smith.

The bride carried a bouquet composed of white roses, baby's breath, stephanotis and ivy interlaced with white streamers. She observed the traditional something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue.

Prenuptial music was provided by Mrs. Francis Fisher. Soloist Glena Engle sang a selection of wedding songs, closing with the "Wedding Prayer" as the couple knelt for the bestowing of the blessings on their union.

Maid of honor, classmate of the bride, was Miss Marge Schnieder of Brownsville, Ill. She was attired in a blue, floral-printed, floor-length gown, with empire waistline, accented by a ribboned bow and streamers in the birde's favorite color. A picturesque hat, matching her gown, completed her ensemble. Cheryl Benson, sister of the groom, wore a pink floral gown and hat fashioned like the maid of honor's. They carried bouquets of light and dark pink carnations with pink streamers.

Benson chose his cousin, Max Tedford of Lawrenceville, as best man. Groomsman was Stephen Benjamin, a college classmate. Ushers were Roger Jordan of Cape Girardeau, brother of the bride, and Bradley Benson, brother of the groom of Lawrenceville.

At the guest book was Miss Teresa Worth of Essex, cousin of the bride. The groom's maternal and paternal grandmothers, Mrs. Myrtle Tull and Mrs. Anna Benson, both of Lawrenceville, were honored guests. The bride's colors were continued in their corsages of pink carnations.

Mrs. Jordan, mother of the bride, wore a pale pink dress with matching pink accessories. A corsage of pink stephanotis complemented her apparel. Mrs. Benson, mother of the groom, was attired in a light blue dress, with white accessories. Her corsage was composed of blue stephanotis.

The reception was held in the social room of the church. The bride's table was covered with white lace-trimmed cloth. Silver candelabras with pink tapers, crystal and silver service adorned the setting. A three-tiered wedding cake was cut with the traditional white pearl-handled knife and matching server, keepsake gifts for the bride and groom.

The gift table, covered with lace-edged cloth matching the bride's table, featured a centerpiece of summer flowers.

Serving the reception for friends and relatives were classmates of the bride and groom from Oakland City College, Oakland City, Ind., Joyce Hamlett, Betty Norington and Joyce Montgomery.

A rehearsal dinner for the wedding party was given May 27 by the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Benson.

For her wedding trip, the new Mrs. Benson wore a multi-colored jersey dress and matching suede accessories, with a corsage from her wedding bouquet.

The newly married couple is making its home at 602 Maple Drive in Lawrenceville for the summer months. In the fall they will be seniors at Oakland City College.

Attending the wedding were the bride's family, the Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Worth and daughters Teresa and Mrs. David Dowdy and granddaughter Amy Beth, Mrs. Louie Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Elzie Wethington, all of Essex and Teresa Simmons of Sikeston, Mo.

Weed Control In Cotton Discussed

BLOOMFIELD — Numerous calls for information pertaining to postemergence weed control in cotton are coming to the University Extension Center. In response to these requests, let's take a look at postemergence weed control treatments recommended for use from now until lay-by time.

Fluometuron (Cotoran) plus a surfactant may be applied from now until cotton is laid by. It will give fair to good control of most common grasses and broadleaf weeds when applied as a directed spray. This chemical has label clearance for use "over the top" but should be used in this manner only when weeds exceed the height of the cotton. Not more than three applications should be made in any one year.

DSMA or MSMA plus a surfactant may be applied from the time cotton is three inches tall until the first bloom appears. Either chemical will control most annual grasses, seedling cockleburs, and some other broadleaf weeds. Best results from the use of these herbicides are obtained during warm, dry periods.

These chemicals should be applied as a directed spray. Topical applications (over the top) or more than two applications can delay maturity and reduce yield. The burning effect on cotton leaves is usually more serious with MSMA than DSMA.

Flometuron (Cotoran) plus DSMA or MSMA plus a surfactant will give better control of most grasses and broadleaf weeds than will either chemical used alone as a postemergence- directed spray. Follow the same precautions suggested for Flometuron, DSMA or MSMA.

Norea (Herban) plus DSMA or MSMA plus a surfactant may also be applied from the time cotton is three inches tall until the first bloom appears. This herbicide combination will provide good control of most grasses and broadleaf weeds. Two applications may be applied five to seven days apart.

Diuron (Karmex) plus a surfactant may be used as a directed spray from the time cotton is six inches tall until it is laid by. This herbicide will give fair to good control of most grasses and broadleaf weeds. For best results, this chemical should be used when temperature and soil moisture conditions are conducive to good plant growth and weeds are less than three inches tall.

Diuron (Karmex) plus DSMA or MSMA plus a surfactant will provide better control of most grasses and broadleaf weeds than will either chemical used alone. Follow the same precautions suggested for Diuron, DSMA or MSMA.

Prometryne (Caparol) plus DSMA or MSMA plus a surfactant can be used from the time cotton is six inches tall until first bloom.

It should be applied in the same manner as the Diuron plus DSMA or MSMA plus surfactant treatment and will give results similar to those obtained from use of this combination. Best results are obtained when air temperatures are 80 degrees or higher. Not more than two applications should be made before cotton blooms.

Of course, the best weed control treatment to apply will depend upon the specific weed problem in each field. Additional information as to the herbicide or herbicide combination to apply for specific weed problems and the recommended rates of application may be obtained upon request from your county University Extension Center.

TOMMY BRANUM, JR. of near Matthews and Joe Scott, state agronomy specialist, inspect cotton planted in 14 inch rows with a grain drill. The cotton will not be cultivated. Herbicides are used to control the weeds. The Branum's will make one harvest of 180 acres of "narrow row" cotton this fall with a "cotton combine." They are looking for ways to check rising production costs.

Tips Offered On Pasture Management

BENTON — The carrying of a well established Fescue-legume pasture can be increased on a small- cost basis compared to the return.

The use of 100 pounds of nitrogen, 50 pounds of potash and 50 pounds of potassium at a cost of $17.50 per acre, applied in the spring, can increase the yield of a pasture one to one and a half times greater than pasture land with no fertilization. You can increase the carrying capacity of your present pasture 38 per cent by cross fencing and grazing the cattle with rest cycles.

For more information on how to better manage your pasture, prevent erosion and increase your income contact the Soil Conservation Service office in Benton.

Missouri Invaded By Cereal Leaf Beetles

JEFFERSON CITY -- The cereal leaf beetle, equipped with a big mouth and an appetite to match, has come to Missouri, reports State Entomologist Lester Barrows, director of Plant Industry, Missouri Department of Agriculture.

Presence of the beetle was confirmed in three Illinois counties bordering Missouri last year, Barrows says. Surveys this year indicate the pest has spread to all of Southern Illinois and most counties bordering the Mississippi River across from Missouri.

Actual finds in Missouri by Plant Industry inspectors include single beetles in St. C. Charles and St. Louis Counties and several larvae in Jefferson County.

First located in Southwest Michigan in 1962, the cereal leaf beetle -- known scientifically as oulema melanopa -- has since spread throughout the east, from the Mississippi River to the Atlantic. The spread has been mainly to the east because the pest is carried by the wind and prevailing winds blow west to east across the United States.

Teams of state and federal inspectors are cooperating in a survey that will continue through June, searching grain fields for the beetles in all counties bordering the Mississippi River.

According to Barrows, eggs are produced in late April and early May and the adult beetles emerge in June. The pests have destroyed an oat field in three weeks or less, entomologists declare.

On March 1, Missouri farmers reported their intent to produce 250,000 acres of oats this season. Oats and other small grains are the primary target of the beetles. Although the oat acreage is small when compared with soybeans, corn and wheat, any farmer whose oat crop is destroyed faces a great loss.

Methods of control include sprays, releasing of parasites and quarantining east to west shipments of commodities capable of moving beetles, the state entomologist reports. Regulated shipments include small grains, hay and straw and harvesting machinery.

Wheat Products Top Plentiful Foods List

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wheat products top the U.S. Agriculture Department's "Plentiful Foods List" for August.

Other plentifuls include nectarines, fresh vegetables, peanuts and peanut products, broiler-fryers, turkeys and eggs.

Through its Plentiful Foods Program, the department keeps consumers and all segments of the food industry informed about foods expected to be abundant and in need of marketing aid.

The wheat carryover this year of approximately one billion bushels is expected to be the largest in nine years. This will assure ample quantities of grain and of bread, spaghetti, macaroni, noodles and other wheat products.

The department says total supplies of fresh summer vegetables will be seasonally large in August, particularly because of the combination of shipped-in and locally-grown produce. All indications are that the principal vegetables — sweet corn, cucumbers, lettuce, and tomatoes — will be plentiful.

Large plantings and reported good growing conditions indicate a record peanut crop this year, probably exceeding even this year's large demand for peanuts and peanut products.

The department says broilerfryer production in August is expected to top that of a year ago, and attractive consumer prices are in prospect. The expected 26 million pounds of new crop turkey marketings in August will exceed year-earlier marketings by approximately 10 per cent and supplies of consumer-sized turkeys should be ample.

The report says that although August egg production is expected to drop below that of a year ago, eggs continue to be plentiful, and represent an economical buy for food shoppers.

Pasture Herbicides Not Residue Problem

By PHILLIP G. STRYKER
Area Agronomy Specialist

MARBLE HILL — A recent study in Texas has shown that normal use of chemical weed and brush killers offer no problem of residues in the meat of animals that graze pasture land. Dr. Donald E. Clark conducted experiments in feeding silvex, 2,4-D, and 2,4,5-T to sheep and cattle.

Cattle producers have been concerned that intake of herbicides from treated range might possibly result in contamination of meat. The team of scientists have found that residue levels in the meat readily disappeared.

For example, cattle slaughtered within 24 hours from the time of ingestion of the herbicide had less than one part per million of residue in the muscle and no more than eight parts per million residue in the liver and fat. After 7 days, which is the withdrawal period recommended, the residue levels had decreased to less than one part per million in any of the animal tissue.

The interesting point of this study indicates that both cattle and sheep respond alike, and that the muscle of both animals had the least amount of residue of all animal tissue.

Since most animals are usually held over more than one day prior to slaughter, the residues in any livestock should not be any cause for concern based on the information from this testing. Most livestock are sent to a feedlot prior to slaughter and would likewise further diminish the level of contamination.

More May Get Rural Housing Loans

COLUMBIA — Many additional families in Missouri are now eligible for rural housing loans from the Farmers Home Administration, according to FHA State Director John O. Foster.

"In families where both husband and wife are employed," Foster explained, "the new policy permits half of the wife's gross income to be excluded in determining whether the total family income is within the maximum limit for loan eligibility."

For example, the husband is the principal source of income with $6,000. His wife earns $4,000. His entire income, plus half of his wife's, or $2,000, total $8,000. This is within Missouri's moderate income level of $8,000 so the family may be eligible for a Farmers Home Administration loan.

James V. Smith, national administrator of Farmers Home Administration, emphasized that newly- eligible families must demonstrate that they otherwise merit FHA financing, and that credit is not available from regular commercial sources.

"The new policy will assist families in which the wife's income is needed to improve the standard of living. Note that if the wife is the principal breadwinner, the rule does not apply. This change will in no way affect our expanding service to low- income families," Smith said.

Loans may be made to families who will buy or build homes in open country or towns of up to 10,000 population, and who are not able to secure credit from regular commercial sources.

Complete information is available from the agency's 74 offices in Missouri, or from Bobby R. Hicks, county supervisor, by phoning 471-1014 or writing to Box 727, Sikeston, Mo. 63801.

Weed Control Tour To Be Held June 30

PORTAGEVILLE — According to John Garrett, area agronomy specialist, a special tour of the Delta Center weed control experimental plots will be held at Portageville Friday, June 30.

This tour will be primarily for farmers and dealers in the Bootheel. The tour will begin at 9 a.m. at the Delta Center farm, six miles southeast of Portageville on Route T.

All Scott County farmers are urged to attend this informative tour. It will be completed by noon.

Results of many weed control practices used in cotton and soybeans will be studied. Many of the chemicals have been used for some time and some of them are still in the experimental stage.

Pond Owners Alerted To Safety Precautions

JEFFERSON CITY — The Missouri Department of Agriculture, in cooperation with the American Red Cross, the National Safety Council and the U.S. Department of Agriculture, urges owners and operators of farm ponds to take every precaution necessary to provide for their safe use this summer.

"There are approximately 150,000 farm ponds in Missouri," Commissioner of Agriculture Dexter Davis notes, "and more are being constructed each year. More and more of these are being used for recreation purposes. Every summer drownings occur in farm ponds, most of them young people. All citizens, especially owners and operators of the ponds, should do what they can to prevent these tragedies."

The agencies, cooperating in promoting National Water Safety Month during June, advise farmers to place proper warning notice and fencing around farm ponds, to provide fundamental life saving equipment and instructions on what to do in emergencies and to fence off or cover irrigation ditches or other water channels where people often pass nearby.

Specific instructions released on safety around farm ponds include the following:

-- Never swim alone.

-- Mark off safe swimming areas with buoyed lines and remove underwater snags, trash, bottles and the like.

-- Avoid swimming in areas immediately in front of steep sloping banks.

-- Post warning signs at danger points.

-- Supervise children closely at all times.

-- Non- swimmers should not depend on an innertube or any other flotation device.

-- If the pond is used for swimming, the water should be checked and approved by the local health department and rechecked periodically.

-- If practical, erect an adequate fence around the pond with a locked gate to prevent unsupervised use by children.

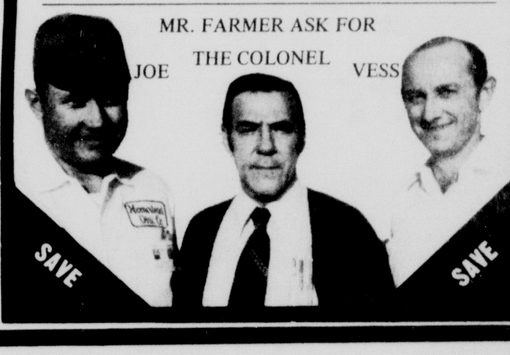

-- Post emergency instructions, telephone numbers and provide a pole or other reaching device for use as an assiste to floundering swimmers.

-- Have an adequate first aid kit available.

-- Enforce common sense safety rules. At least one responsible person should know how to administer artificial respiration, perform basic reaching rescues and give first aid.

Farm Ownership Loan Lid Rises To $100,000

Bobby R. Hicks, county supervisor of the Farmers Home Administration office serving Scott and Mississippi counties is now in a position to make farm ownership loans in amounts up to $100,000.

This new loan authority is a result of a recent change in national policy which has been several years in the making. The old loan limit was $60,000 and was entirely inadequate to help any significant number of farmers.

With the new authority, Hicks feels that a greater number of farmers will be able to purchase farms with a Farmers Home Administration long- term real estate loan. The current terms of Farmers Home Administration farm ownership loans are 40 years maximum at five per cent interest rate.

Hicks pointed out that in an effort to assist more young farmers to become owners, Farmers Home Administration and Federal Land Bank have entered into an agreement whereby both agencies can make joint loans.

The joint effort will make available a significant portion of the cridit needed for the farmers to purchase land, Hicks said.

Hicks indicated that anyone over 21 years of age who is actively engaged in farming and who has a good record for farm management and debt payment is eligible for consideration for a loan.

Anyone interested in discussing the farm ownership loan program should contact the Farmers Home Administration Office at 106 East Center Street, Sikeston, Mo.

Certification Deadline Is July 3

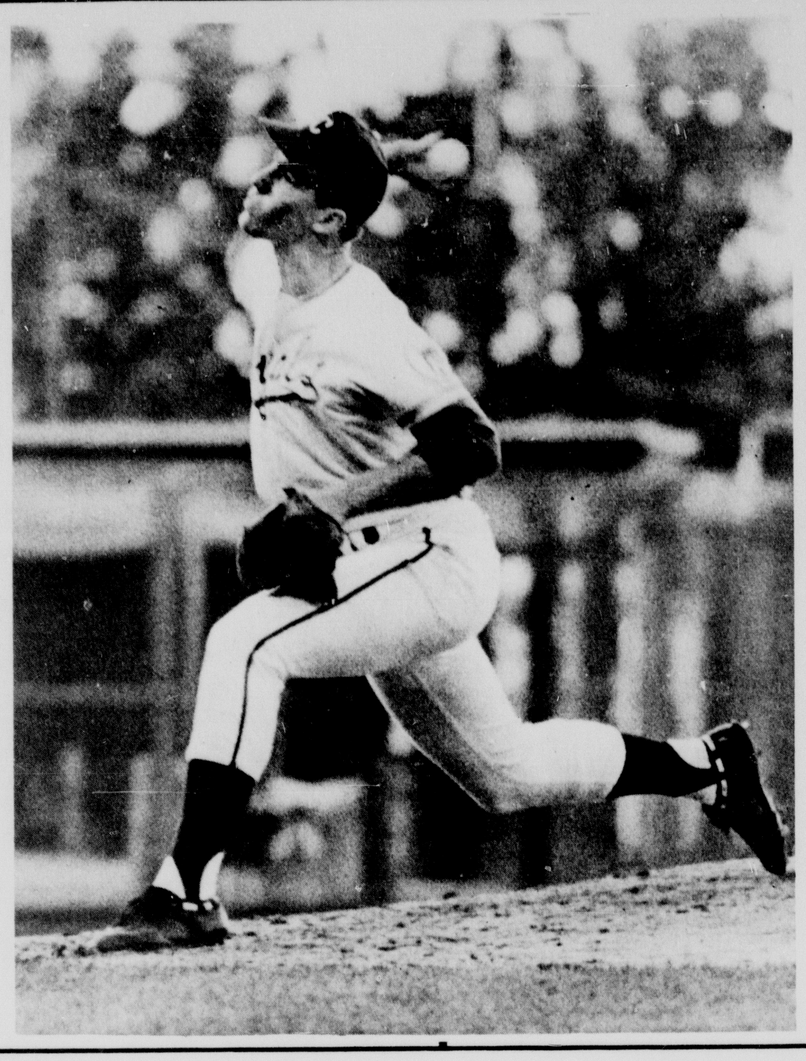

Farmers who have not completed their final farm acreage certification are reminded that the deadline is Monday, July 3.

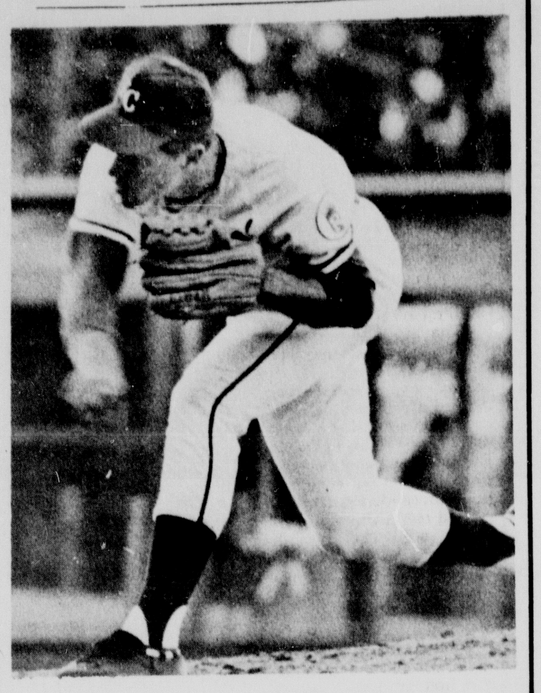

Program payments cannot be processed until final certification is made.

THE PITCHING STYLE of Mark Littell is pictured in this sequence of getting the signal, wind-up, throwing and follow-through. Littell had the chance to show his skill in Thursday night's exhibition game between the Kansas City Royals and Atlanta Braves. The hard-throwing right-hander from Gideon signed a multi-figured contract with the Kansas City Royals after his graduation from Gideon High School in 1971. Royal's Manager Bob Lemon predicts a good future for the skillful 19-year-old.

Football Season Begins

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — The football season officially begins tonight with the 12th annual Coaches All-America game between the East and West, featuring many of the best of the 1971 crop of college seniors.

The game is the harbinger for the 1972 football season, which will run until next January.

Paul Bryant of Alabama is the East coach and Oklahoma's Chuck Fairbanks handles the West.

The West is a one touchdown favorite because of its high octane offense with quarterbacks Jerry Tagge of national champion Nebraska and Jack Mildren of Oklahoma at the controls.

Tagge will operate at quarterback when Fairbanks wants to run the offense from I or spread formations. Mildren will handle the Wishbone-T attack.

Paul Miller or North Carolina and Joe Gilliam of Tennessee State are the quarterbacks for the East.

"I think both teams will throw the ball but it won't be the typical all-star game where you throw the ball three times and punt," Bryant said.

Johnny Musso of Alabama Billy Taylor of Michigan, Curt Watson of Tennessee and Lewis Jolley of North Carolina make up Bryan'ts East running-back corps.

Jeff Kinney of Nebraska, Bernard Jackson of Washington State, Bill Butler of Kansas State and Tom Mozieck of Houston will handle the West running chores.

Defensive lineman Larry Jacobson of Nebraska and cornerback Willie Buchanan of San Diego State anchor the West defense while linebacker Ray Nettles of Tennessee and defensive back Tom Darden of Michigan carry the most impressive credentials among the East defenders.

The West has a 6-5 lead in the series and won last year's game, 33-28, in the last 31 seconds.

Playoff At VFW

Sikeston's 13-year-old All-Stars took on the Try-County All-Stars this afternoon at 2 o'clock in the first leg of the race to a state baseball crown, as the District 3 playoff got underway at V.F.W. Stadium.

To take the win, Sikeston must excel in two out of three games. The winner in the double elimination contest advances into the state finals at Chaffee June 30.

Charlie Dye and Larry Lancaster manage the Sikeston 13-year-old squad. Larry Keller was slated to be the starting pitcher for Sikeston. The starting lineup in batting order included Dale Deal, shortstop. Bob Leible, third base; Gary Griffin, catcher; Kenny Standridge, second base; Jeff Limbaugh, first base; Derek Lefler, left field; Bill Hampton, center field; Mark Silverthorn, right field; and Keller.

The second game of the series will be played at 7 tonight. If a third game is necessary, it will be played at 2 p.m. Sunday.

Pond Deadline Near

JEFFERSON CITY -- Missouri has about one-third million farm ponds – the Show-Me State's answer to Minnesota's "Land of 10,000 Lakes" claim – and they provide as much good fishing water acreage as a couple of Lakes of the Ozarks.

That is, if they have fish in them. A hole in the ground, filled with water, is a hole in the ground filled with water. But a hole in the ground, filled with water and stocked free by the Department of Conservation is a fishing pond.

Deadline for applications for fish to stock Missouri ponds which now don't have fish is July 15. If the application is approved, the Department will stock newly renovated or new ponds with the proper ratio of bass, bluegill and channel catfish.

Applications are available from the county conservation agent or from some agricultural agencies such as the Extension Office. A pond must be eight feet deep at the deepest part, must have water and shoreline protected from livestock, must have a permanent and water- tight dam and must not have any fish in it when stocked.

The pond stocking program has been one of the most popular services offered by the Department of Conservation. More than 76,000 ponds have been stocked free. Fish are distributed in September or October at a central location in each county. The pond owner or a representative may pick up the fish then.

"Missouri's farm ponds are a priceless resource," says Charles Purkett, chief of Fisheries for the Department of Conservation. "Many of our services are kind of intangible -- maybe no more than expert advice. But the pond stocking program is a highly visible and productive service and one that we are delighted to offer." About one- fourth of all fishing trips are made in farm ponds.

7 wrong reasons for having a baby:

1. "You're married a year now. When are you going to give us grandchildren?"
2. "You want to have a kid, Evelyn? All right, we'll have a kid. Maybe that'll patch things up."
3. "Why knock myself out working when I can have a baby?"
4. "I bet my parents would send us money if we had a baby . . ."
5. "Heh-heh, hey Frankie, what are you and Margie waiting for?
6. "We only want two kids. But if we don't have a boy we'll keep trying!"
7. "Sure I want babies. What else is a woman for?"

Photos by Leonard Nones

These are just seven of the many wrong reasons for having a baby.

There's only one right reason: because you really want one.

And the right time is when you want one. When the baby can be a welcome addition, not an accidental burden.

Unfortunately lots of people who think they know how to go about birth planning don't. (Research statistics show that more than half the pregnancies each year are accidental!)

That's not having babies for wrong reasons.

That's just being wrong.

Ali Predicts Win

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Muhammad Ali admits Jerry Quarry might be stronger than he and hit harder.

"But I'm skillful and creative and artistic and I'll beat him" the former world heavyweight boxing champion declares of his Tuesday night 12-round bout against the Southern California Irishman.

"I've boxed against stronger men and beat them," Ali adds. "I hit hard enough to hurt and I've boxed so regular and I'm hitting so fast that I'll win.

"Thinking and speed wins heavyweight fights, not just strength."

Quarry had declared earlier he was the physically stronger of the two and would put pressure on Ali in this rematch of their 1970 bout in Atlanta when the Irishman was cut in the third round and the fight stopped.

Ali stands to earn $500,000 for the Quarry fight at the Las Vegas Convention Center yet he looks ahead to an even bigger payday, another multi-million dollar meeting with Joe Frazier, the heavyweight king who beat him last year.

"He's got to fight me to clear the slate," the ex-champ said after Friday's workout.

Ali ranks as the No. 1 heavyweight contender and Quarry No. 2. On the same card, Jerry's brother Mike challenges champion Bob Foster for the light-heavyweight title.

At Friday's training session at Caesar's Palace, the crowd of about 2,000 was told, "Muhammad Ali has enjoyed entertaining you the past sevel days, but as the time of the fight approaches, he asks that you help make this a serious training session."

Quarry, who at about 197 pounds will be about 20 pounds lighter than Ali, said of the first fight, "I learned then I had nothing to fear. He can't punch hard."

MISSOURI'S BULLFROG SEASON begins at sunset June 30 and will run until midnight Nov. 30. Daily and possession limit is eight. Bullfrogs may be taken either by hunting or fishing methods, but the frogger must have the appropriate permit.

Pitchers Take Over

Arlin 1-Hits Giants

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Steve Arlin's two-hitter against Pittsburgh last Sunday was a hard act to follow but he managed to do it with a onehitter against San Francisco.

The San Diego Padres' ri ghthander was brilliant the way against the Giants Friday night but he still needed a three-run homer by Nate Colbert in the eighth inning to give the Padres a 4-1 National League victory.

Arlin and Giant left-hander Sam McDowell locked in a pitching duel that lasted until Colbert's shot. Garry Maddox got San Francisco's only hit when he tripled in the second and scored on a sacrifice fly by Alan Gallagher.

"It was the same pitch I struck out two batters on in the first inning," Arlin said.

Arlin, 7-6, walked three and struck out eight while McDowell, 8-5, walked four and struck out four in seven full innings.

In other National League baseball games, Cincinnati thumped Houston 7-1, Los Angeles edged Atlanta 2-1, Pittsburgh defeated Chicago 4-2, Montreal trimmed Philadelphia 2-1 and St. Louis at New York was rained out.

Cincinnati regained first in the NL West as Ross Grimsley pitched a five-hitter and was backed by Jonny Bench's 19th homer of the year. Bench's three-run circuit in the fourth, a single run in the fifth and three runs in the eighth gave the Reds a half-game lead on Houston.

The Astros scored their lone run when Grimsley cut loose a wild pitch in the ninth with a man on third.

Frank Robinson's 10th homer won the game for Los Angeles before its largest home crowd of the season, 53,107. His sixthinning shot following Willie Davis' double put him in a tie with Eddie Mathews and Ernie Banks for career homers with 513. The Braves loaded the bases with none out in the seventh but managed just one run.

Robert Clemente drove in two runs with a windblown triple as the Pirates rallied for three runs in the fourth. The victory over Chicago was Steve Blass' eighth straight and raised his record to 9-1.

Right-hander Mike Torrez, 83, of Montreal and the Phils' Jim Nash pitched scoreless ball for seven innings before Osc ar Gambl drove in a Philadelphia run. The Expos loaded the bases in the eighth and Ron Fairly singled in one run and Ron Woods drove in the winner with a sacrifice fly.

Brett Limits Boston

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

On "Ten Cents A Beer Night" in Milwaukee, the Brewers rolled out the barrel and had themselves some fun.

A crowd of 20,865 turned out to take advtange of the beer sale and watch the Brewers play Boston. And some of the patrons might have thought they had tipped one too many when they saw the "6" go up on the scoreboard for the home team in the fifth inning.

The home team Brewers, in case you haven't noticed, have not exactly been tearing up baseball's American League. Only three times all month had they scored as many as six runs in an entire game and here was the scoreboard man asking the fans to believe six runs in a single inning. Was he in the beer too?

Nope. It was true. The Brewers did indeed have a six-run inning and wound up whipping Boston 8-1.

Elsewhere in the American League Friday night, New York tripped Cleveland 4-1, Kansas City shut out Minnesota 5-0, Texas edged Chicago 4-3 and California beat Oakland 2-1. Detroit's game at Baltimore was rained out.

Ken Brett allowed just three hits in eight innings to earn the Brewers' sudsy victory—his first triumph since May 10. Did it mean anything special since it came against his ex-teammates? Not at all.

"I'm glad to win even if it's against the girl's softball team across the street," said Brett. "I've got a long way to come back. I haven't won in six weeks.'

The Yankees stretched their winning streak to six games— longest in two years. Fritz Peterson earned the victory on a six-hitter.

Bernie Allen drove in New York's first two runs with a third inning homer, his first of the year.

The victory left third place New York 5½ games be hind Detroit in th American League's East Division.

John Mayberry had a big night for Kansas City, driving in four runs, three of them on an eighth inning homer as the Royals whipped Minnesota.

Dick Billings' eighth inning single drove home the winning run for Texas as the Rangers knocked off Chicago.

Ted Ford and Frank Howard both rocked knuckleballer Wilbur Woof for Texas home runs. But Howard, for one, was impressed with the floater.

Jaycees Host Golf Tourney

Sikeston Jaycees will hold their annual Jaycee Duffer's Tournament Sunday at Sikeston Country Club.

More than $500 in trophies and golf prizes will be awarded winners in six classes.

A Cheater's class has been added for the benefit of better golfers who wish to play, giving them a shot at the same prizes the duffers win in their five classes.

Tom Nunnelee, tournament chairman, said the new class will not affect the scores of duffers, but will eliminate the possibility of any better golfer turning in a good score and shooting himself out of the tournament. So, in effect, everyone who plays has a chance to be a winner. The five other classes are Championship, A, B, C, and D classes. There are four prizes in each class.

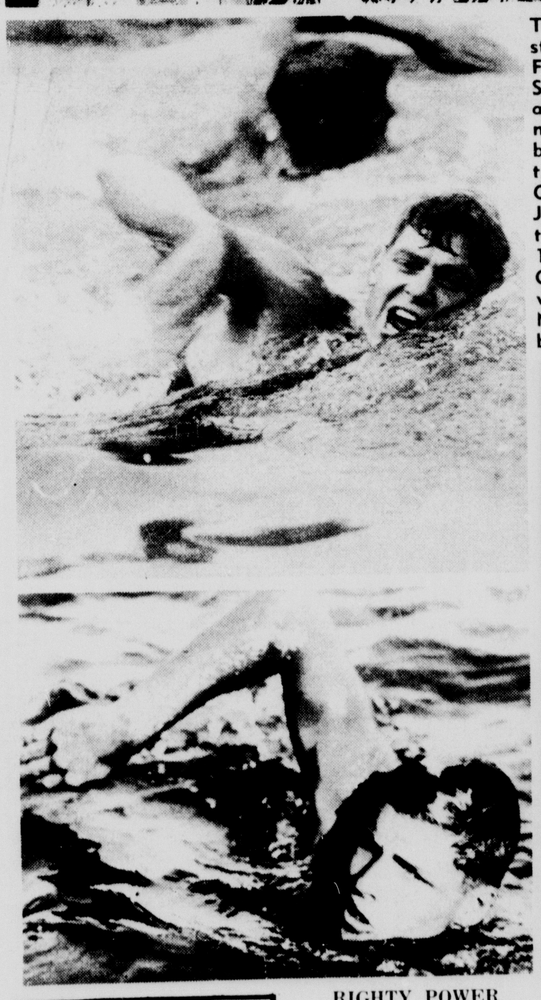

A shotgun start will ignite the action at noon. Golfers are advised to get their foursomes together and register anytime after 9 a.m. Sunday at the country club. If any singles and doubles come to participae, they will be paired by the tournament committee when they sign in.

A good turnout is expected and any golfer wishing to play may enter the tournament.

Rain Grounds Birds

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

John Mayberry drove in four runs for the Kansas City Royals Friday night. The St. Louis Cardinals game with the Mets in New York was postponed by rain.

Mayberry hammered in three of the Royals' runs in the eighth inning with his sixth homer of the campaign as Kansas City downed the Minnesota Twins 5-0 behind the seven-hit pitching of Paul Splittorff, 6-4.

A Mayberry single drove the first run across in the sixth after Splittorff and Jim Perry, 6-6, had engaged in a tight pitching battle. It scored Richie Scheinblum, who had singled and gone to second when Tony Oliva bobbled the ball.

In the eighth, Lou Piniella doubled, Ed Kirkpatrick was hit with a pitch, and Scheinblum singled, scoring Piniella. Then came Mayberry's big blow.

Splittorff, the Royals' biggest winner, had difficulties in each of the first six innings but wiggled out of trouble each time mostly because he struck out nine Twins.

Both the Royals and the Cardinals had afternoon games scheduled today. The Royals were to meet the Twins again in Kansas City, pitching Jim Rooker, 3-4, against Jim Kaat, 8-2.

The Cardinals' mound choice was Reggie Cleveland, 6-4, whose opponent was the Mets' ace, Tom Se aver, 9-3.

LYNCH IN PINCH

Gerry Lynch hit 18 pinch home runs during his career, more than any other player in baseball history.

BUSY ROOKIE

Irving Young pitched in 43 games in his rookie season with the Boston Braves in 1905. That made him the busiest first-year pitcher in modern major league history.

SWINGING PHILS

The 1920 Philadelphia Phillies drew only 283 walks in 153 games, setting the major league record for fewest bases on balls in one season. The Boston Red Sox of 1949 walked the most times, 835.

Bullets Get 'Big E'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Coach Gene Shue of the Baltimore Bullets will face a dual challenge next season: rebuild the National Basketball Association team and find a way to handle Elvin Hayes.

Both projects were set in motion Friday night when the Bullets acquired the controversial "Big E" from the Houston Rockets in exchange for Jack Marin and undisclosed "future considerations."

Although the Bullets won division titles in three of the last four seasons, their record has dropped steadily from 57-25 in 1968-69, to 38-44 last year. Shue figured it was time to make a move.

"When you have a damned good team, changes aren't necessary," he said. "But if you're on a downward spiral, it's silly to sit back and accept it. With this trade, I think we face the prospect of turning the tide."

Marin, a 27-year-old, 6-foot-6 forward, averaged 16.7 points per game in six NBA seasons, including a career high 22.3 last year when he was named to the All-Star team for the first time.

Hayes, a 6-9 center who is a year younger, has averaged 27.4 points and 16.3 rebounds per game in four seasons. He also was among the league leaders in personality conflicts.

In Houston, President Ray Patterson of the Rockets said Hayes was not traded because of his differences with Coach Tex Winter. And Shue said, "With a change in location, we hope Elvin will have a change in attitude."

Hayes has scored more points, 8,996, than any other player during the past four years and his 5,351 rebounds ranks second only to his new teammate, Wes Unseld.

Shue said Hayes would open at center, but play outside to take advantage of his shooting. Unseld will continue to play inside as a forward, and possibly play center against certain opponents.

With his acquisition, the Bullets finally will be able to shift the 6-7½ Unseld from center to forward.

In the 1968 college draft, the now defunct San Diego Rockets won a coin toss with Baltimore for the No. 1 choice and selected Hayes. The Bullets then took Unseld.

Hayes led the NBA that season with a 28.4 scoring average. But Unseld was named both the Rookie of the Year and the league's Most Valuable Player.

Plan ahead. That way, you'll be as mixed-up as the rest of us.

Fish Kill Estimate

JEFFERSON CITY — An estimate of $16,820.20 damages has been made by Department of Conservation water quality biologists in the aftermath of a fish kill which claimed an officially estimated 222,000 fish in the south fork of the Salt River.

The kill resulted from a spill of an estimated 93,000 gallons of fuel oil from a storage tank at Kaiser - Mexico Refractories at Mexico.

The damage estimate was prepared by Frank Ryck, who also investigated the fish kill for the Department of Conservation. Such estimates use an assigned value for fish depending on species.

The estimate was turned over to the Attorney General's office. "It figures out to be about $500 a mile," Ryck said. About 30 miles of the stream had nearly all aquatic life wiped out by the oil.

Ryck said the kill estimate was very conservative and represented only visible fish. The river normally is murky and, in cold water, dead fish tend to sink to the bottom, so probably all that were counted were fish which floated into riffles and shallows.

Investigation of the massive kill involved both the state Conservation Department and Clean Water Commission and the federal Environmental Protection Agency.

The oil spill apparently had gone on for several days before area residents reported it to Gene Baldwin, Audrain County Conservation agent. Most of the damage took place the first week of April.

Remember, no one can make you feel inferior without your consent.

Men Ordered Drafted May Join Reserves

WASHINGTON (AP) — Men ordered drafted in early July were given a fresh chance today to beat the draft by joining the Reserves or National Guard.

They also were offered another chance to enlist in the regular forces for two years, instead of the usual three or more, and gain a wider choice of assignments than draftees.

Today's announcements reflect Selective Service moves to implement two new policies, one permitting men to opt for the Guard or Reserves after getting their draft notices, and the other permitting the shorter enlistment period.

The new rule says a man may not join a unit or enlist for less than three years within 10 days of his induction date. That would have left out most of those ordered to report early next month, but today Acting Draft Director Byron V. Pepitone eased the rule.

Pepitone authorized draft boards to grant a 15-day delay for men with reporting dates between July 1 and July 15 if they are actively being processed for Reserve or Guard appointment or two-year enlistment.

But he said this policy will not be extended to men who are on orders to report for Army duty this month.

The chance for men facing certain draft to join the Reserve or National Guard was opened up in hopes of filling some of the growing shortages in those forces.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird and Deputy Secretary Kenneth Rush recently expressed concern because the Guard and Reserves have dropped an estimated 40,000 below strength as draft pressures eased.

Pepitone said men who want to take advantage of the new policy must locate unit vacancies on their own and should request that their enlistments or appointments be expedited to meet the 10-day requirement.

A man is given 30 days notice to report or start hunting for a Reserve or National Guard slot.

Youths Work Without Pay To Keep Hotel Open

CARTHAGE, Mo. (AP) — For nearly two weeks, Pam Cole, 21, Mark Thompson, 17, and Charles West, 13, ran the old four-story Drake Hotel, caring for 26 mostly elderly tenants.

The owners, Mr. and Mrs. Owen Dale Spear, walked out early June 4. They told a tenant they were moving to the country.

Hardly anyone in Carthage, a town of about 11,500 persons in southwest Missouri, noticed the disappearance of the Spears' until the water and electric company threatened to shut off utilities June 14. The action alerted Mayor John C. Sheldon.

Then it was disclosed that Pam, Mark and Charles had been working from 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. daily to keep the four-story apartment hotel operating.

The three young people have received no wages since April.

"They (the owners) said they were going to pay us in cash because they were having a little trouble with checks," said Charles. "But I wasn't thinking about that, I was just thinking about the people in the hotel."

Besides operating the elevator, Charles also served as desk clerk, bus boy and helped with the cleaning.

Pam and Mark also did everything from cooking and serving meals to cleaning and mopping up.

"I didn't feel like I could just leave them without anybody— what would they do?" said Miss Cole. "Most of them have been here some length of time. I just couldn't leave them like that, I think too much of them."

Mark echoed the comments of Pam and Charles. "Somebody had to stay," he said.

George Guinn, one of the residents, said, "the young people did a splendid job. Yes sir, they sure deserve a lot of credit."

Mayor Sheldon gained a stay of execution from the utility companies and the Jasper County Social Services Corporation agreed to manage the facility until a new operator can be found.

Meanwhile, the Security Bank of nearby Fort Scott, Kan., has asked the Small Business Administration to foreclose an SBA-guaranteed $65,000 loan to the Spears. A foreclosure sale is set for July 13.

A spokesman for the SBA regional office in Kansas City, Edward Farmer Jr., said the government hopes that whoever buys the property will continue to operate the hotel.

The solid, fire-proof structure, built by public subscription in 1921, has been "a civic institution", said Farmer. "We're going to do the best we can to keep it open for the people in Carthage."

Bootheel Food Project To End

PORTAGEVILLE — A $276,000 emergency food program serving six Missouri Bootheel counties will end June 30, C. B. Huber, executive director of a Bootheel antipoverty agency, said Wednesday.

Huber, head of the Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation (DAEOC), said the Office of Economic Opportunity's regional office at Kansas City "informed me Tuesday that the program definitely will end June 30."

The Bootheel program is being phased out, he said, because the national emergency food program has not been refunded.

The DAEOC project involves delivering food commodities to 2,200 Bootheel families, "mostly elderly and homebound folks," Huber said.

The families, he said, are located in Mississippi, Scott and Stoddard counties.

DAEOC's program in Pemiscot, Dunklin an New Madrid counties, helping persons obtain food stamps and educating them in their use, also will end, according to Mr. Huber.

Thirty- two DAEOC employes will become unemployed, he said.

DAEOC's other programs, he said, will continue. They include supervising the Neighborhood Youth Corps, Operation Mainstream, Operation Head Start, a vocational training program and job placement and family services programs.

Disadvantaged Youth Camp Donors Needed

BLOOMFIELD — University of Missouri Extension Division will conduct a camp for disadvantaged youths again this summer.

The five- day camp will be held July 24-28 and will emphasize education, recreation, human relations and human development. It provides an opportunity for these youths to participate in activities that many Americans take for granted.

The camp is held at the Missouri 4-H Camp at Lake Wappapello where facilities are donated by the Southeast Missouri 4-H Association.

Although the nutrition and education assistance branch of university extension services sponsors and nominates children, other children may be nominated by the welfare board, various civic groups or individuals.

Each camper is financed solely through contributions and the cost of the five- day camp is $25 per camper.

The fee provides meals and lodging, refreshments three times each day, a grooming kit, insurance, supplies for crafts and other incidentals for each camper. Counselors, instructors and other personnel are volunteers.

At the present time, the Extension Center is in the process of soliciting financial support from various civic groups to help sponsor the disadvantaged youth camp.

Any organization, business or individual interested in helping the camp through financial contributions should contact Dee Goedeke at the University of Missouri Extension Center in Bloomfield or Benton. Phone numbers respectively are 568-3344 and 545-3517.

Pemiscot City Councils Approve Landfill Fees

HAYTI — The city councils of Hayti, Caruthersville and Steele met for little over an hour at Hayti Monday night to discuss the the refuse- landfill situation in the county and voted to assure the court that charges to run the landfill operation at Triangle Boat Club will be implemented.

The court's idea is to charge $1 per household per month in each of the three cities. This would be collected each month in the form of a check from each city payable to the court. The added dollar per household each month will be charged on the water bill and the first payment to the county court will be due the middle of August.

As a result of a meeting last week between mayors of Hayti, Caruthersville and Steele and the presiding judge of the Pemiscot County Court, it was decided that the landfill will be county- operated for use by the three cities and county residents on a fee basis. Jack Darnell of Hayti is currently building a levee for the third side of a triangular- shaped landfill at the boat club.

Darnell told the councils: "We can get the landfill operation started within a month and pay for expenses and equipment by charging $1 per household per month. If the three cities can take care of their garbage pickup and disposal without charging anything extra, that's fine. All I want is an agreement on the dollar."

Mayor Bill Inman of Caruthersville said that although the dump will be ready to go by the first of July, "for the first two weeks just the three cities will be dumping at the site to see how it works out. Then people in the county can begin to bring their garbage to the landfill site for disposal."

County residents will be charged for disposal at the gate. They will be charged $1.50 if they bring garbage in their car, $3 for a pickup truck, $7.50 for a bob truck and $15 for a trailer. Two fulltime employes will be at the site.

Inman mentioned to the councils that he believes it will be necessary for each of the cities to also charge a certain amount per household in order to make the landfill operation work.

The mayor said he is reasonably sure that Caruthersville and Steele will charge $1.50 per household per month which will be collected on the water bill each month. This makes the water bill total per household per month for garbage disposal at $2.50. The Hayti city council discussed charges for nearly two hours but no decision was made.

The new charge of $2.50 per month per household would be in addition to the 50 cent per $100 assessed valuation now charged for the sanitation fund in Caruthersville.

Broken down, this includes $9,192 from Steele (766 households), $16,440 from Hayti (1,370 households), $30,420 from Caruthersville (2,535 households) and $4,000 from the county to be collected on a fee basis.

Inman pointed out that the Pemiscot County sanitary landfill fund must take in $60,000 plus in order to get the future site ready for use in two years.

Hayti Votes July 3 On Annexation

HAYTI — A long- awaited special election to determine whether voters desire to annex additional property has been set for July 3.

A resolution setting the date of the election was approved by the board of aldermen Monday night.

If the annexation proposal meets approval of Hayti voters, the city will be enlarged by several hundred acres.

It is anticipated that at least two new residential subdivisions will be developed if annexation is approved, and several new businesses, including a 100- unit Holiday Inn are anticipated.

The ballot for the Special Election will read as follows: Question: Shall the corporate boundaries of the City of Hayti, Missouri, be extended so as to include the additional territory proposed to be annexed to said city? The voter is then given the choice of placing an X mark either in the Yes or No box.

The last legal step necessary to the legality of the election was taken Tuesday morning when Hayti city officials represented by City Attorney "Tick" Vickrey asked for and received a declaratory judgment in Pemiscot County Circuit Court, thereby clearing the way for the special election on July 3.

There will be only one polling place for the election, the assembly room on the second floor of the city hall. The polls will be open at 6 a.m. and will remain open till 7 p.m.

Judges and clerks of the election will be as follows: Sarah Moss, Effie Ings, Betty Garrett, Flora Carter, Pat Turnage and Lillian Gaither.

Town Board Named For Tallapossa

NEW MADRID — A five-member town board has been appointed by New Madrid County Court to hold office until successors are named in a special election in a move to reactivate town government at Tallapoosa.

The appointments were made after a majority of the residents presented a signed petition making the request to the county court. State law makes no provision for reactivating town boards.

Incorporated in 1924 the town of 240 is two and one-half miles south of Risco.

Residents are taking action to get a town board functioning so the town will be eligible for gas tax refunds and federal grants to provide water, sewer and other improvements.

Named to the board are Orby Taylor, Hurschell Deprow, Leo Deprow, C. W. Craig and Mrs. Elizabeth Abshier.

No date has been set for the election.

JOHN HART: THE ANATOMY OF A CONVENTION

"If you wanted to, you could find enough to do to fill a 30-hour day," says CBS News Correspondent John Hart of the activities of a reporter at a national political convention.

Hart, who covered both national party conventions in 1968, will do the same this year while continuing as anchorman for the CBS MORNING NEWS WITH JOHN HART, broadcast each weekday morning on the CBS Television Network (6:00 - 7:00 A.M.).

The mystery is: when will Hart sleep? The conventions convene each day at 7 p.m. and end as late as 1 a.m. the next morning, and then Harts starts writing for his early morning broadcast by at least 4 a.m. and then there are the committee meetings and states' caucuses every morning.

But it's no mystery why he would want to undertake what will be a grueling schedule.

"It's the greatest show on earth -- well rehearsed acts, fascinating displays of ego, ambition, vanity, combined with the most serious aspirations of a people and its leaders," says Hart.

"Moreover, the public is well aware that a convention is a trial for candidates, but it's also a rigorous test of a journalist. Under the most distracting circumstances, when you're physically tired, and information is usually sketchy and hard to get, the reporter must see through the temporary spectacle to the significant event or trend.

"To a good reporter, the challenge of getting a story under such conditions is tantalizing. And what's beautiful about a convention is that, as a news story, it seems to be complete. From gavel to gavel, it has a beginning, a middle and an end -- a structure. Normally, the journalist can only report bits and pieces of a story which unfolds its full details over a long period of time. Of course, all kinds of inside information about a convention come out long after the last gavel, but the structure of the event is very attractive to the journalist.

"Then there are the people one views so closely at these times. Aside from candidates, many of those who surround them are the same people you'll be reporting on for a long time -- perhaps as cabinet members of the White House aides, if they've affixed themselves to the right man. You identify them at a convention and later watch them grow."

Joining Hart on the "floor" will be Correspondents, Dan Rather, Mike Wallace, Roger Mudd and Morton Dean. Correspondent Walter Cronkite will anchor CBS News' convention coverage, joined by National Correspondent Eric Sevareid and Theodore H. White, a long-time political consultant to CBS News. for analysis.

CBS News will broadcast live gavel-to gavel coverage of the Democratic Convention, beginning Monday, July 10, and the Republican Convention, beginning Monday, Aug. 21. on the Network.

Biography

Don MacLaughlin

Chris Hughes In As The World Turns

Don MacLaughlin was born in Webster, Iowa. His father was a doctor who thought his son would follow in his footsteps. However,the nearest Don ever got to the medical profession was his portrayal of Dr. Brent in the radio and television series "Road of Life."

He majored in English and speech at Iowa Wesleyan, Northwestern and the University of Arizona. While at Arizona, he formed a group of theatrical players for semi-professional one-night stands. For financial reasons, MacLaughlin abandoned his thespian interests and returned to Webster to teach. The acting itch was too great, and a year later he tried Broadway.

After unsuccessful months in New York , he signed on as a deckhand aboard a freighter to Singapore. Upon his return to New York, he met Mary Prugh, a newspaper woman,whom he later married. He credits a major part of his success as an actor to his wife. Prompted by her, he made the rounds of casting agents and producers and finally launched his career in the Broadway production of "The Fifth Season." In the hit musical "South Pacific," he Played Commander Harbison during the latter months of the show's long run.

He has been a familiar voice on radio, having appeared in most of the major dramatic series. His most famous creation was that of David Harding in the popular "Counterspy" series. He is an original member of the cast of "As the World Turns" (April 2, 1956).

MacLaughlin's family lives in Connecticut, but he lives in a Manhattan apartment during his work week. He has three adult children, Douglas, Janet and Britton. MacLaughlin likes theatre-going and photography. His photo work has been published in several magazines. He is 6' tall, weighs 180 pounds and has gray hair and blue eyes. Birthday: November 24.

What You Want To Know?

Q. Here's a request for a little TV trivia, which I hope you can come up with. What was the name of the TV game show on which parents competed with their children for points? And, even harder, who was the master of ceremonies? We've been trying to think of his show and the M.C. for weeks. - Mr. and Mrs. L.M., Fort Wayne, Ind.

A. You're thinking of "The Generation Gap," which was hosted by Dennis Wholley.

Q. Is Vincent Price going to star in a series based on Edgar Allen Poe stories for TV? I have seen Mr. Price in many movies based on Poe horror stories and there's no one better in the parts. If he is going to star in such a series, when will it begin? - Mrs. T.M., Elizabeth, N.J.

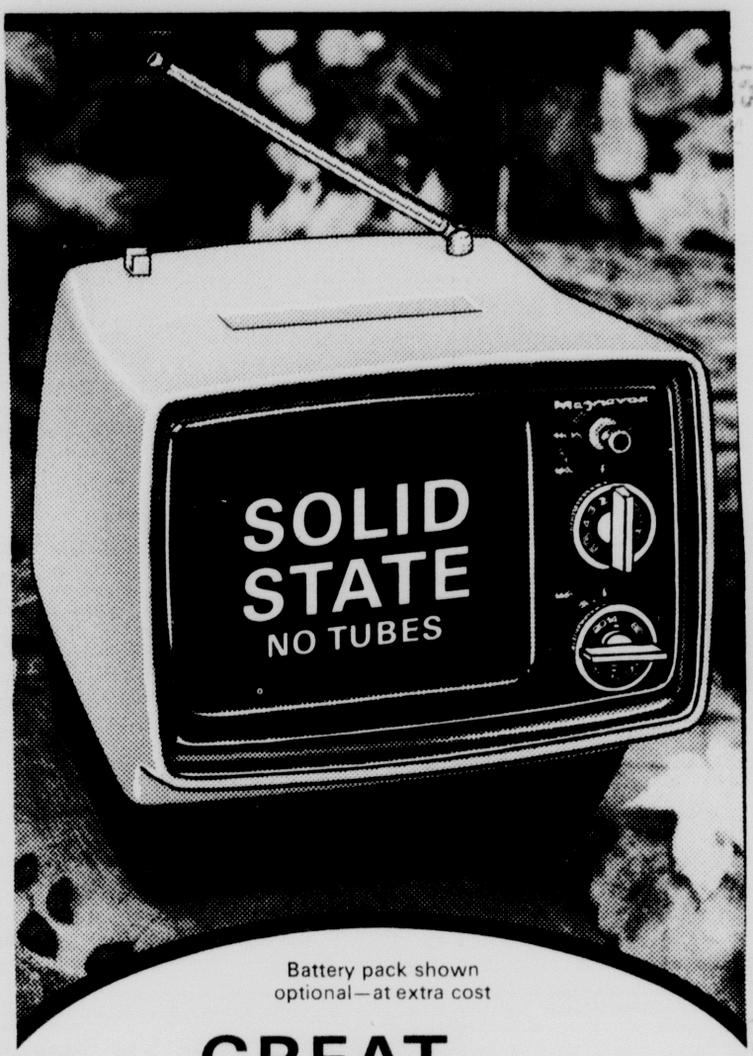

A. Vincent Price is still making films based on the Poe stories. He has no intentions of starring in a TV series at the present time.

Q. I understand from reading an article on "Gunsmoke" that James Arness was given the role of Matt Dillon on the say-so of John Wayne. Is this true? L.A., Memphis, Tenn.

A. "Gunsmoke" was offered to John Wayne as a TV series but he declined the offer. However, he did suggest the producers test James Arness for the role of Dillion and the rest is history.

Q. Are any of the old western movies, the ones starring Tom Mix and Tex Ritter and Sunset Carson, ever shown on TV? I am a fan of these old movie westerns and I look for them on TV but so far, I haven't seen them. — M.D., Huntington, W.Va.

A. Although these vintage western movies are available for TV showings, they are seldom telecast these days. Check your local TV station about the possibility of scheduling some of these films.

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) The men who run the TV networks are no dummies, even though sometimes it may look that way. There's method in their murky programming.

They know, for example, just who watches "demographics" is what they call the science of measuring the type of audience they get. And demographics these days indicates that here are a lot of older folks glued to the millions of living room theaters.

Perry Lafferty of CBS once told me that, given a choice between Dustin Hoffman and Glenn Ford as a series star, he wouldn't hestitate — he'd sign up Ford, because the bulk of the audience would rather see him.

So he went out and did just that, now Glenn Ford is starring in Cade's County and it looks like Lafferty knew what he was doing.

Like many other top movie names, Ford turned down many TV bids before he actually succumbed.

"I could kick myself," Ford says, "that I didn't do this three years ago. I'm having fun."

He says when he finally made the decisions to try TV, they gave him a choice of three formats a doctor, a lawyer or a western sheriff. He took the latter.

"I didn't want to spend my whole working day in a hospital," he says, "and as for the lawyer show, there were too many long speeches."

Ford is famous around Hollywood, and always has been, for cutting his own dialogue. He believes that most movies are too talky, and he has a rule of thumb - no speeches over four lines.

An of-repeated story around town is that Ford as well as the other movie into-TV actors, such as James Garner, James Stewart and Rod Taylor - have made the move because of lack of movie work. Ford says that isn't true, as far as he is concerned.

He says that TV is "where the action is today." And he isn't particularly worried about whether or not he makes it although- obviously, he'd rather it was a success than a failure.

"But if it fails," he says, "I can's see it hurting me any more than some of the miserable pictures I've done."

Sam Cade, the county sheriff he plays on the series, is, he says. a composite of all the western characters he's ever done.

"When I said I'd do it," he says, "they ran off all my westerns, and took a bit from each.

He says he hasn't been surprised at anything he's found in TV shooting, except for one over-all bit of amazement - That it can be done as well as it has been done in the time they have.

Cade's County is 20th Century-Fox's big one, and they are rumored to be spending more on it than on all the studio's other TV shows (Room 222, Nanny and the Professor and Arnie) combined.

Nixon Tours Flood Area, Death Toll Climbs To 80

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The death toll in one of the most destructive storms in the history of the Eastern Seaboard stood at 80 today and President Nixon flew into a city in the heart of the devestation.

More than 120,000 people have been driven from their homes by the weeklong rains and flooding.

Nixon, accompanied by newsman, left the presidential retreat at Camp David, Md., by helicopter and made an aerial tour of areas of Maryland, Virginia and Pennsylvania. He then landed at Harrisburg, the Pennsylvania capital, where a quarter of the city was under water and 7,000 of the 68,000 residents were evacuated to higher ground.

The worst was yet to come along the Susquehanna River Basin of Pennsylvania and Maryland as record-breaking crests surged downstream.

But it appeared that the "major disaster" feared by some officials was not developing along the Ohio River at Pittsburgh.

The Ohio crested at 35 feet, 10 above flood stage, about dawn and then began receding. Swirling waters covered the park at the tip of Pittsburgh's famous Golden Triangle and crept up to the business district. But there was little evidence of the disastrous flooding that struck other states. Flooding was still predicted for some West Virginia and Ohio sections of the river.

Thousands of volunteers spent the night caring for the homeless in schools, hospitals, armories and even a race track that served as rescue centers. Others searched for the missing and sandbagged holes in dikes along hundreds of miles of riverfront.

Anxious officials watched flood control dams bulge under the pressure of record water levels.

Damage was immense. Gov. Milton J. Shapp estimated the cost to Pennsylvania at more than $1 billion. Gov. Marvin Mandel of Maryland said he had never seen such destruction in his life. Gov. Linwood Holton said the damage to Virginia was $160 million, making the storm the most costly in the state's history. The minimum damage estimate in New York state was $24 million, including $17 million in Allegany County.

The four states plus Florida were declared by President Nixon to be disaster areas.

But the picture was not uniformly bleak. The rains that for a week soaked the Northeast from Virginia to New York subsided. Tropical storm Agnes which created the disaster was absorbed by another weather system over central Pennsylvania and torrential downpours turned into occasional showers.

Water levels stabilized in southern New York and were receding at some upriver towns in Pennsylvania.

In some areas, especially western Pennsylvania, flood control dams were preventing more widespread damage.

But even as the waters receded in some areas, new problems arose. The water filtration system in Richmond, Va., was knocked out and the storage supply was expected to be exhausted by early today. After that the city's 220,000 residents will have to depend on water distributed at firehouses from four pure springs near the city.

Water supplies were also low at 10 Pennsylvania cities, including Harrisburg, York, Reading, Lancaster and WilkesBarre.

Stoddard To Vote On Jail Issue

BLOOMFIELD — Upon closer examination of their jail building, Stoddard County officals have decided to let the taxpayers determine whether the county should proceed with remodeling plans on the old structure or build a new one in the future.

Engineers have reported that $83,000 is necessary to remodel the existing two-story building, with no provisions made to increase prisoner capacity. A new structure, built on county land and designed to house twice as many prisoners, would cost approximately $130,000.

The Stoddard County court has announced plans to let citizens vote in the August primary on a special 10-cent levy per $100 valuation for one year only. If the levy is passed, approximately $58,000 in revenue would be available, in addition to present county funds and a promised grant from the Bootheel Law Enforcement Assistance Council, for construction of a new jail which would meet federal standards. By doing this, the county would remain essentially debt free.

In their report, the court also explained that should the existing jail be closed, costs of housing and transporting prisoners to other jails would be about $25,000 per year.

James Spain To Seek Fourth Term

James Spain

State Representative James E. Spain, a native Southeast Missourian, has filed for the Democratic Nomination for Attorney General.

Representative Spain is presently serving his third term as a representative from Stoddard County.

In commenting upon his candidacy, Rep. Spain said, "Missouri needs modern laws to deal with such issues as crime, drug abuse, pollution, consumer protection and penal rehabilitation. The attorney general can and should be taking the initiative on these problems on behalf of the people of this state."

Spain said he would bring "new energy and enthusiam to bear against the state's great and complex problems."

"It is time," he said, "for the attorney general's office to become more than a house counsel for state agencies. The attorney general should become the lawyer for the people, helping them solve the problems concerning their daily lives.

As a member of the Missouri House of Representatives, Rep. Spain has sponsored or co-sponsored bills dealing with drug reform, air and water polution and regulation of insurance holding companies...

Spain is a partner in the law firm of Briney, Welborn and Spain of Bloomfield, and is a member of the Stoddard County and American Bar Associations. He was educated in the public schools of Caruthersville and earned his B.A. degree from Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau. He was awarded his LL. Burlison Spending Criticized

HOUSE SPRINGS — E. E. (Ed) Faulkenberry of House Springs, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress from the 10th District, has sharply criticized his opponent, Rep. Bill D. Burlison of Cape Girardeau for "seriously abusing" the taxpayers by using their money to pay his reelection staff $9,000 a month.

Faulkenberry also charged Burlison with using his free postal privileges to mail political literature.

Faulkenberry said Burlison's personal payroll for the last half of 1971 was $52,585 for 13 employes. The amount does not include any possible pension benefits or any increases in personnel and payments for the primary.

The list includes Lenzie Beck of Sikeston, paid $4,549.98. Also on the list are Pat Benton of Cape Girardeau, $2,650; Harriet Clair, $3,550; Don Dickerson, a Cape Girardeau attorney, $3,256; Minna Divers, a secretary in the Washington office, $6,049; Richard Dugal, a field secretary in Farmington, $2,500; Bradford Haynes, $560; James Herod, a field secretary in Cape Girardeau, $5,146; Susan Mickland, $3,550; John Nutter, an administrative assistant in Washington, $4,750; Sue Prosser, a former secretary from Delta, $9,583; Millie Rhyne, secretary in Cape Girardeau, $3,002; and Queeny Walls, Washington office, $3,500.

"I am positive these figures will double for the first half of this year," Faulkenberry said. He added that Burlison's payroll records for the first half of this year are not yet available.

Faulkenberry charged that most of these people "drew large salaries from the taxpayers for the sole purpose of prepetuating Burlison's political future." He called the situation "outrageous."

Faulkenberry promised that, if elected to Congress, he would initiate a system of unpaid volunteers to do the work Burlison is paying for.

A JOB WELL DONE

In addition to the troops, U. S. ground disengagement in South Vietnam is bringing home the American Red Cross clubmobile girls. Since 1965, these girls have provided comfortable recreation centers for our servicemen in remote combat areas.

Traveling by helicopter, jeep and truck, the clubmobile girls boosted morale with their programs. Commanders whose units had seen heavy fighting usually asked the Red Cross to send workers. At their arrival, the men's spirits lifted immediately.

Clubmobile girls, mostly recent college graduates, conducted quiz shows on things like movies and sports. Teams of servicemen were panel members competing for high scores. After the games, the Red Cross workers often helped in ladling out "chow," talking to the men and generally providing a touch of home.

During their seven years in Vietnam, clubmobile teams traveled over 2 million miles across some of the world's most hostile terrain. Frequently they had to run for underground bunkers when the bases came under rocket attacks.

The Red Cross had about 125 recreation workers in Vietnam during the peak of U. S. involvement. Through the seven years, over 600 young women served 12-month tours. They were so successful that the Defense Department has asked the Red Cross to continue the clubmobile program in Korea.

Perhaps there is no greater tribute to the clubmobile girls' job than the Certificate of Application sent by Commanding General Creighton W. Abrams:

The young women who were the core of this program's success contributed materially to the improvement of the morale of servicemen assigned to Vietnam. Their personal dedication and attitude reflected favorably on the American Red Cross and assisted the commander in the field in the accomplishment of his mission.

DID YOU KNOW THAT

Women drivers -- often bearing the brunt of unkind words from many of their male counterparts -- now comprise nearly 42 per cent of the licensed drivers in the United States.

According to the Bureau of Public Roads, the number of women drivers has increased from 15 to 44.2 million, up a whopping 200 per cent since 1950.

Almost half of the 76,688,000 reported automobile breakdowns in 1968 were caused by failures in the car's electrical system. Dead batteries were the biggest culprits. Drivers, trying to extend the life of their car's batter were usually sadder, but wiser after the tow truck departed.

Rather than stretch your luck, when the first signs of a weak battery are noticed, replace it now and leave the trudge to the service station for someone else.

A new material -- instant dry reflective striping compound -- has been introduced for pavement center line, lane and edge application. The material dries in 10 seconds under average conditions and eliminates the need to use traffic cones and barriers.

Compare the 10-second drying time to the new material with the 180-second to 30-minute drying time for other commonly -used striping material and you can see why traffic engineers request the new material.

According to the manufacturer, the compound's instant - dry characteristics also bring obvious advantages in the areas of traffic safety and convenience. Use of the material eliminates lane-blocking and traffic need not be stopped or slowed to a crawl.

The compound is pressure -fed from tanks or drums into a heat chamber on the applicator rig. Heated, the free-flowing material is then fed into a spray gun which applies it to the road surface. Tiny glass beads are pre-mixed in the compound to provide reflectivity. From one to three colors can be applied simultaneously.

As election time approaches, the word from Washington is that the American economy is looking better.

Well it might. There is no excuse for a depression in the United States.

Prosperity is based upon productive capacity of a nation, plus the efficiency of distribution of goods.

Production and distribution are so closely related that they are considered by some economists to be a singular factor in national wealth.

Unemployment and lay-offs by major manufacturers are widely publicized. However, distribution failures are rarely mentioned in the news.

Yet in a surplus productive society, distribution failure always precedes production cuts and industrial unemployment.

In a real sense, distribution failure, be it in automobiles or television sets, is an advertising failure extending from the largest manufacturer to the smallest retailer.

The ultimate factor in national prosperity is the local retailer. It is his selling - largely his local newspaper advertising - which creates employment and lower production costs.

When local advertising anywhere helps the merchant to sell a new home or a new coat, it affects employment and buying power in New York, Dallas, or San Francisco.

According to Mr. A. M. Tewksbury, writing in the Oregon Voter Digest, "Cuba, the communist paradise and one of the world's leading sugar producers, is still rationing sugar and has had to cut the ration even lower recently. Cigars are rationed too in the land of famed Havana cigar. Thanks to communist mismanagement, sugar production is less than 5 million tons, just half of Castro's long trumpeted goal of 10 million tons. Under Castro, the Cuban economy is not just stagnant, but actually going down hill. Cuba'a GNP has declined 9 per cent between 1958 and 1970. In sharp contrast, 18 major Latin-American countries averaged a GNP gain of 24 per cent in the same period even though many of them are governed by the military. Castro has been an economic disaster for Cuba."

GLASS MAY PAVE TOMORROW'S ROADS

Recent research by the University of Missouri has come up with an intersting use for old throw-away glass bottles.

According to the university, if all goes well, we'll intentionally be driving over broken glass. Seen as a way to help solve roadbuilding as well as pollution problems, the researchers think glass might make a good aggregate material in bituminous concrete for roads.

Challenged by a professor of ceramic engineering to pretend they worked for a glass company and had to find a solution to the problem of what to do with the great number of throw-away bottles, undergraduate students in the class suggested the broken glass might make good aggregate.

After experimenting to determine the best size of glass fragment to use and the proper type of asphalt binder, the material was submitted to road testing.

A small surface path was made with the new material in a parking lot on the campus. According to the report, the test stook up well enough to traffic and bad weather to warrant further experimentation.

To gain additional test data, the university researchers are working with the street department in Rolla to lay a strip of glassasphalt pavement 600 feet long and 20 feet wide on the university campus. The strip will be tested for durability, skid resistance and wear on tires before the final report will be issued.

Still too early in the experiment to evaluate the results, indications are there is a good chance the glass will make a suitable aggregate. If this is confirmed, and if cities and counties can find an economical way of gathering and grinding the throw-away bottle into usable sizes, perhaps glass will pave tomorrow's roadways.

THE STONES RETURN

The Rolling Stones rock band is introducing youth culture to the Age of Ticketron. Young people have stormed the computerized ticket - selling agencies before several early stops on the English group's current 31-city tour of the United States and Canada. All appearances to date have been sellouts. The riot-causing potential among disappointed ticket-seekers was minimized because Ticketron's agencies are scattered around shopping centers and downtown stores. But there have been melees outside concerts in progress.

If the rock fans had to line up at the concert site for tickets "they'd level the place," said Barry Imhoff, head of FM Productions, which is handling ticket operations for the tour. At the opening concert June 3 in Vancouver, there was a riot outside the concert hall caused by unrequited and unticketed music-lovers. Eight policemen and a dozen young people were injured.

An experiment in mail-order ticketry for the June 14 San Diego concert went awry. Police said hundreds of tickets were counterfeited and scalped for as high as $50 apiece. After the 16,000-seat San Diego Sports Arena was filled, ticket-holders left outside rampaged and 21 persons were injured. Concert promoters are relying on a lottery drawing to allocate the 54,000 tickets to the three Stones sessions in New York's Madison Square Garden, and hoping for a peaceful outcome.

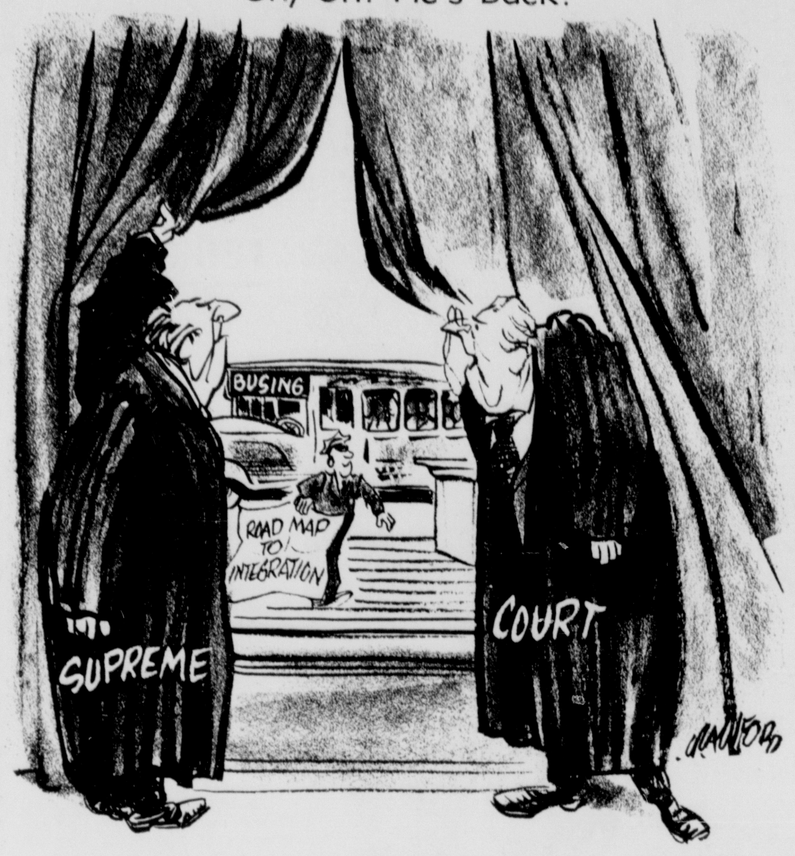

More security is the promoters' answer to the violence problem. There will be at least 200 police to keep the peace for the largest crowd on tour, which will gather Tuesday, July 4, in Washington's Robert F. Kennedy Stadium. The 46,500 tickets, which will produce a one-night gross of around $250,000, were sold out in three days in late May, except for a few hundred $10 reserved seats.

When the Rolling Stones last toured the United States in 1969, their final concert at Altamont, Calif., destroyed the Age of Aquarius myth created at the relatively peaceful Woodstock festival four months earlier. The free concert drew 300,000 people to the Altamont drag strip 50 miles east of Oakland, Calif. An 18-year-old boy was stabbed and beaten to death in front of the bandstand; three others were killed in accidents on the periphery. This time the Stones are performing in smaller, walled arenas, heavily defended by police.

ANOTHER NEEDED ELECTION LAW CHANGE

Present primary election laws in Missouri require that, except where voting machines are used, names of candidates for each office be rotated. This means that in a small precinct where there are perhaps not over a hunderd or so votes, the printer of the ballots for Monroe County, for instance, will have to stop his press every eight or nine ballots for the Democratic governors race, and move the name at the bottom of the list to the top.

The provision was originally made on the theory that many people neither knew nor had heard of some of the candidates, and that the person whose name appeared at the top would probably get more votes as the voter would mark the first name he or she came to.

With news so widely disseminated as it is today, this theory belongs to the horse and buggy days and should be forgotten.

A fair way, we believe, is to place the candidates names on the ballots in the order in which they filed.

It would cut down ballot printing costs, make counting of votes more accurate and easier, save the taxpayers money, while having little if any effect on who is nominated.

Secretary of State Jim Kirkpatrick suggested this change, but the Legislature failed to act on it.

We hope the next one does.

Precincts using voting machines cannot rotate the names. If it is fair in those precincts it would be fair here and elsewhere where machines are not used. At any rate, the same law should apply to all precincts in Missouri.

THOSE DIFFICULT LETTERS

(To the parents of a child)

Dear Friends:

A few days ago I was accosted by a poor old woman. One could see that she was hungry — tired, ill. As I looked into her poor, withered face I wondered why a kind Providence hadn't called her home to peace and rest — why she was left to suffer here.

But those are things we cannot answer. It is all in Divine hands. And I like to think when the young are called that perhaps they are favored — perhaps they are called to add a spot of beauty — a needed flower in the Heavenly gardens — a blossom that will grow in greater beauty there.

Sincerely Yours,

RUSSIAN ANNOYANCES

"The traveling White House Press corps clapped and cheered as their chartered airplane left the ground at Kiev, ending eight days of sojourn in the Soviet Union." Robert E. Baskin, chief of the Washington Bureau of the Dallas Morning News, thus summed up his feeling and that of his colleagues as they left the Soviet Union after the summit conferences had ended. "We were all weary of the country," said the veteran correspondent. "At first it had been intriguing and interesting. But then it became boring and depressing." He complained of restrictions and annoyances that "one would not find in a capitalistc country."

Life in Moscow, Mr. Baskin wrote, is a pretty barren thing. He found little gaiety in the lives of the people. One of the more boring experiences the newsmen had was a half hour lecture on Lenin as they visited the tomb where the mortal remains of the old Bolshevik remain on public display. Correspondent Baskin described Lenin as "that violently radical man." It was an adequate phrase.

The correspondents were confused about the relative value of the ruble. The Soviet government says it's worth a dollar and a quarter and that is what one must pay. But, added Mr. Baskin, the rate is four rubles to one dollar. Such is life in the Soviet Union.

It has been the contention of this columnist for many years that life simply is not normal in a highly socialized state. The state is all powerful, the minds of its citizens thoroughly washed with propaganda that enslaves them. With all their faults, the capitalistic nations still offer the good life, the only type of life that freedom loving people want. If we have grievances we can air them. They are not always corrected but at least we can make ourselves heard and not go to jail for having sounded off.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — The White House has quietly started twisting arms on Capitol Hill to authorize tougher measures against marijuana violators.

For months, a fierce debate has raged inside the Nixon Administration between those who want to legalize marijuana and those who favor a marijuana crackdown. The crackdown crowd has now won.

The word has gone out from the White House to put the heat on Congress to pass two measures that would assure continued prosecution of marijuana users.

The instructions were delivered by White House aide Walt Minnick to Donald Miller, chief counsel for the Justice Department's Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs.

Miller immediately called representatives from several federal departments behind closed doors on June 13 to plan the lobbying campaign.

The principal measure is an international drug control treaty which would obligate the U.S. to make possession of certain drugs, including marijuana, "punishable offenses."

The other measure is an enabling law, which would be needed to clear the way for Congress to approve the treaty.

The treaty, known as "The Convention on Psychotropic Substances," would empower the Justice Department to control drugs regardless of the medical recommendations from the Health, Education and Welfare Department.

DRUG CONTROVERSY

This would directly contravene a drug abuse law, enacted by Congress two years ago, giving HEW the power to decide which drugs are dangerous.

A number of HEW officials are dismayed over the White House action. They believe HEW, as the scientific and medical arm of government, should rule on dangerous drugs.

The President's own National Commission on Marijuana and Drug Abuse has recommended that penalties for personal possession of marijuana be abolished.

BNDD officials, however, are sternly opposed to relaxing any of the laws against marijuana use. Their views were underscored in a recent speech by John Ingersoll, the hard-line BNDD director. He told a group California policemen that the legalization of marijuana and other drugs might mean the fight against drug abuse was "lost altogether."

He added: It is our duty not only to protect the public in the streets from vicious criminals but to protect the public from harmful ideas."

Footnote: HEW officials believe the White House deliberately began lobbying for the drug control treaty on the eve of the election campaign, figuring it might be difficult for Members of Congress to oppose it in an election year. But Minnick explained to us that the timing had been determined by the Senate Judiciary Committee's schedule. The committee must process the enabling legislation.

BLUECOATS VS REDSKINS

It has been many moons since the bluecoats won their last skirmish with the redskins in the struggle for the West. But the federal government is still crowding the Indians.

Back in 1865, the government signed a treaty with the Winnebago tribe granting them land "for use and occupancy forever." As late as 1944, the Army Engineers -- descendants of the bluecoats -- pledged that they would never appropriate Indian lands without prior tribal consent.

But now the federal authorities want to build a recreation project on Winnebago land in Iowa and Nebraska. Without regard for past treaties and pledges, the government took the land away from the Indians for the Oxbow Lake project.

Nor that the friendly Winnebago mind opening their homeland to their white brothers for fishing and picknicking. But the tribe would like to retain the title and collect the income from park concessions.

Footnote: Congressional sources tell us that a House Appropriations Subcommittee may settle the issue, strictly for budgetary reasons, by turning down the $750,000 appropriation for the Oxbow project.

FBI and Alinsky

Saul Alinsky, the self-proclaimed "professional radical," died earlier this month. He would have been dismayed over the eulogies that appeared in several newspapers.

His popularity with more respectable reformers caused him recently to reassure his staff: "Don't worry, boys, we'll weather this storm of approval and come out as hated as ever."

He would be comforted to know, however, that the FBI at least regarded him as a menace. The G-men kept him under regular surveillance and tried to paint him red.

But the FBI file on him isn't convincing. Despite Alinsky's rabble-rousing, he was hardly a routine revolutionary. "I love this ----country," he kept on saying, "and we're (the common people) going to take it back."

Even the FBI had to acknowledge, in a typical entry, that Alinsky was as anti-communist as he was anti-establishment. An agent, quoting a speech Alinsky made in Claremont, Calif., wrote:

"Alinsky claimed that he has nothing but scorn for political and religious dogma, and his comments about religion were generally sarcastic. He claimed he has nothing but contempt for Communism and for 'professional liberals.'"

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Is He Stoppable? labor still battling for Humphrey or Kennedy

NEW YORK — It was fun city here the night before primary -- especially for George McGovern, candidate from the Coyote State. Mayor Lindsay slipped out of the city and the South Dakotan Senator had it all to himself except for Ted Kennedy who was downright campaigning for the Vice Presidential nomination.

So McGovern went to a party atop the Hotel Biltmore -- once the haunt of Tammany Hall's Carmine DeSapio. Nor was McGovern lacking in local color. He came to the whooping, singing, fraternal gathering with former Mayor Bob Wagner.

This was an unusual crowd for the gentleman from the West -- some 200 labor officials, some powerful, some politically puny.

It was the first such reception. It was his New York campaigners' retort to those who have been saying George McGovern has no rapport with labor. He did Monday night -- mostly with the old left-wing CIO crowd and some of their personable but militant second generation.

There were auto unionists, sandhogs, brewery people and influential men from the State, County and Municipal Employees and the men's clothing union. McGovern mixed with the melting pot's milieu. He was alien corn. But they loved it.

And he plunged into the crowd, shook hands, wilted in the non-air conditioned mugginess -- and promised to wipe out the Pay Board, appoint a union leader Secretary of Labor, open the White House to them, eliminate all traces of the Nixon administration and revamp the economy.

That is, if he's elected President. He made it crystal clear that he was now reaching for organized labor.

Speaking, as he often does, of himself in the third person, he said that it had been bruited by some that labor needed McGovern. Well, he added, he wanted it on the record that McGovern "needs labor."

For two weeks now he has been trying to impress this personally on AFL—CIO chief George Meany, who still is the power behind the strongest national political machine in the and -- Committee on Political Education (COPE).

Not knowing his way about "the movement," he had fumbled. He had directed his campaign coordinator Frank Mankiewicz and another aide to call the national AFL—CIO headquarters to say he'd like to talk to labor's president. Meany was abroad then. They did not try to get him on the transatlantic phone.

Knowledge of such modern equipment, it appears, is one of Hubert Humphrey's inner strengths. The former Vice President called Meany aboard the Queen Elizabeth last week and had a long and friendly talk with the hundreds of regional political committees "can make a difference."

Theirs was a private conversation but it's obvious HHH sought Meany's support for a "stop McGovern" drive. Pragmatic labor collectively is more than a politician. It is a mathematician.

At this moment labor's national headquarters simply doesn't believe George McGovern has the nomination. They're not saying he doesn't have it. They're saying "the ball game isn't over until the last out in the ninth."

Officially they're neutral. Behind the scenes there's disparate thought -- quite passionate in some circles. Some of the top political minds inside labor see a McGovern-Kennedy ticket. They say Ted has really wanted second place for a long time now for lots of reasons including the fact that three of the past five Presidents have been Vice Presidents.

Such a ticket would have strong support from the burgeoning peace bloc inside the AFL-CIO, from powerful sectors of the Teamsters brotherhood especially in the Central and Western States, and even in "parts of Richard Daley's camp."

But there are those in powerful -- and in the very highest -- labor circles who say that McGovern just doesn't have the delegate count.

These men believe McGovern's California delegation doesn't "even" match his own reform representation standards. And that the courts have knocked out other McGovern votes. And that "a new ball game will start shortly."

They're still saying there will be some deadlock. They know that Ted Kennedy is set to fly down. His wife Joan has sets of rooms reserved. They say Kennedy, Humphrey, Muskie and miscellaneous blocs of votes from such strange corners as George Wallace and Shirley Chisholm can block McGovern. Then it will be up to "Ted or Hubert."

So last Monday evening may have been the last bit of fun George McGovern will have for the duration. He has a lot of collective bargaining to do with Meany and company before he can win.

Hearnes Clears Desk; Signs Gas Tax Hike Bill

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has cleared his desk of all 225 bills passed by the Missouri legislature, signing 213 and vetoing 12. He also cut out five line items in earlier bills he signed.

In the final burst Friday, the governor signed 33 bills and vetoed six, including two that were duplications.

The ones signed included several that caused major controversies in the 1972 legislature — a 2-cent a galion gasoline tax increase, an income tax simplication measure, one to repeal the intangible property tax and some broad envirionmental control bills.

Last year the governor vetoed a 2-cent gas tax increase because it was not tied to a highway bond issue. This year efforts are being made to get a $730 million transportation bond issue on the ballot but it will be touch and go for the sponsors to get the necessary 90,000-plus signatures by the July 6 deadline.

A 2-cent increase in motor fuel taxes would produce about $50 million more a year for roads and streets. Eighty per cent of the total goes to the state, 15 per cent to cities and 5 per cent to counties.

The tax simplificiation bill makes Missouri state income tax definitions conform with federal language and sponsors said it would save millions for small taxpyers.

The intangible tax repealer would become effective in 1975. At the August primary, however, voters will have a chance to speed that up if they vote for a constitutional amendment that includes a similar repealer, plus tax relief for the elderly and repeal of the property tax on household goods.

All the intangible tax revenue goes to local units of government.

Two major envirionmental bills beef up the air pollution laws and the powers of the Air Conservation Commission and require a state Health Division permit for any solid waste disposal facility, such a dump or a sanitary landfill.

Cities and counties could levy a tax up to 10 cents on the $100 valuation to finance such facilities if the voters approved.

Case Of Delayed Grand Opening

By Jack Strauss, LL. B.

While Emma was lovely to look at, she was a sight to see when she entered a private hospital complaining of terrible stomach pains. Immediately, the doctors decided that her appendix had to come out. And, with no loss of time, her clothing was removed, she was handed a hospital gown and was given some medication in anticipation of the Grand Opening. Confetti, however, was not wasted. When the admitting officer realized that Emma lacked the $200 admission fee, the muchheralded Grand Opening was abruptly canceled. The hospital gown was taken back, she was handed her clothing and she was sent on her way still in pain.

Five hours later, a second hospital proved more humane. Without requiring any front money, Emma was taken in and her appendix was taken out.

Thereafter, Emma sued the first hospital for not performing the operation in the first place and for making her suffer in pain, unnecessarily, for five additional hours.

"A hospital," she complained incourt," is supposed to be hospitable.

"Not our hospital," was the answer. "We're a private institution. As such, we can choose our patients. And, since Emma didn't have the $200, we chose not to choose her. We acted within our rights."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you hold the hospital liable for Emma's delayed Grand Opening?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that while a private hospital may not be required to admit undesired patients, by taking Emma's clothing, giving her a hospital gown and administering medication to her, the hospital, physically and legally, had admitted her. Having done so, concluded the judge, it had a duty not to act unreasonably in having her removed from its premises. It could not toss her out while she was in pain and in need of treatment. Manford Pulls Out Of Race

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — State Sen. Donald Manford of Kansas City has withdrawn from the race for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor.

After filing late, he said he found many were already committed to support other candidates and could not help him with contributions.

"To run a statewide campaign costs a lot of money," he commented.

Manford, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, said he would devote his time instead to a campaigning for a governmental reorganization proposal which will be on the August primary ballot and to working for legislation to improve the state's budgetary procedures.

China Indifferent To Ending War, Kissinger Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger said today after returning from Peking that there is still no clear indication of Hanoi interest in serious negotiations to end the Vietnam war.

Kissinger said also in briefing newsmen at the White House that all major nations favor an end to the Indochina war, and that he did not ask China's leaders to intervene with Hanoi.

His 3½ days of talks with Premier Chou En-lai and other Chinese leaders was "primarily an exchange of views," and "not a request on our part to the People's Republic to do anything."

He said that, in some 18 hours of formal talks and another half-dozen hours of more informal chats, the primary purpose was to discuss U.S.Chinese questions and exchange views on international affairs. Both sides found the parley useful, he said.

Kissinger predicted "slow but steady progress" will be made in U.S.-Chinese trade, and he forecast steady if not spectacular progress in the coming months in setting up more cultural exchanges between the two countries

On the Vietnam issue, Kissinger agreed with Secretary of State William P. Rogers who had said earlier there was no clear sign yet of Hanoi interest in serious negotiations.

"We have not yet had any clear indication, but we are pursuing the subject and when we do have it we'll resume negotiations and it will be announced," Kissinger said.

He said Hanoi's leadership currently is reviewing its policy. The Nixon administration aim is to bring matters to a point where substantive diplomatic negotiations can be held, he said.

He said that, when serious negotiations do take place, it is the U.S. view that they should be between the United States and North Vietnam directly, at the Paris conference table or elsewhere.

He said the United States recognizes that Hanoi's leaders, having fought for so long for their cause, won't surrender their destiny to others by having others negotiate a settlement in their behalf.

Prior to the briefing by Kissinger, the White House issued a joint statement that said Kissinger and the Chinese leaders had held "extensive, earnest and frank" talks.

Hijacker Missing And Feared Dead

PERU, Ind. (AP) — A youthful gunman who switched planes in St. Louis when a car rammed the first jet he hijacked bailed out with $502,000 ransom early today after airline officials taught him how to operate the parachute. Police speculated he may not have jumped safely.

Not long after the man left the American Airlines jet, the jump zone was pinpointed by Air Force radar and authorities began a search of the rolling hills in this corn producing area.

State police said the gunman may have had difficulty bailing out and said there was a report bits of clothing and money were found in the airplane. Police speculated he may have tangled his clothing or parachute on the stairway ramp at the rear of the jet and fallen to his death.

As day broke searchers concentrated on Frances Slocum State Park at Mississinewa Reservoir.

Indiana state conservation officers launched boats onto the 12,830-acre flood control reservoir on the Wabash River.

The searchers were requested by radio reports from the communications control center at the Peru Police Department to "look for pieces of parachute" or any other evidence. "Please sweep the water completely," a radio message said.

Carpenter Withdraws

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Donald L. Carpenter, candidate for the Democratic nomination for state treasurer, said Friday he would withdraw from the Aug. 8 primary because of the press of business and the high cost of campaigning.

Carpenter, of St. Louis County, said he would throw his support to James Spainhower, another Democrat seeking the treasurer's post. "It is my considered opinion that Jim Spainhower is by far the most qualified man," he said.

"I find that running for office and carrying on a high level campaign is very costly and because I do not have the financial support of any monied groups, it would probably be very difficult to raise the funds that would be needed for a successful campaign," Carpenter said.

Two Named To Attend Girls Nation

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Jonalee Young of Jefferson City and Mary Kay Huber of Washington, Mo., were designated today to attend sessions of Girls Nation late in July in the nation's capitol.

Miss Young was a Federalist nominee and her alternate will be Kathy Olliges of St. Louis. Miss Huber was a Nationalist choice and her alternate will be Dee Ann Hutchison of Versailles.

The girls were chosen in final sessions of Missouri Girls State winding up after almost a week-long series of meetings on the campus of Stephens College.

Mary Van Amburg of Creve Coeur was designated for the office of State Patrol in another bit of late business and Barbara Callaway of Savannah was elected chief justice of the supreme court. The new chief justice is a Federalist, and was elected through the Nationalist representatives had a majority on the seven-member court.

Ann Landers

Older Hubby Suspicions

Dear Ann Landers: I just came from the funeral of a good friend. He was only 56 at the peak of his career, a wonderful guy, beautiful family, the most attractive man in any group. There were many sad-eyed people at the service, saying very little to one another. But the unspoken message was clear: "What a tragedy that this productive, successful, delightful fellow was cut down in the prime of his life."

On the way home I rememberd another funeral --- one I attended a few months ago. The man was 90. He had once been a prominent person in the community --- useful, productive, successful and loved by all. He retired at about 75. His eyesight went bad and he developed crippling arthritis. By the time he was 80 he was confined to a wheelchair, almost blind, his memory was gone, most of his cronies had died and he was a lonely and sick old man --- a pathetic figure who was a drain on his only daughter's energy and financial resources. The last 15 years of his life were downhill all the way.

Recalling the old man made me feel less sad about my 56-year-old friend. There is somthing to be said for leaving the stage amid applause and cheers. I hope I'm lucky enought to die with my boots. on. --- Kentucky Musings.

Dear K.M.: Wouldn't it be wonderful if your old friend could have given his 15 years to your young friend? But life doesn't work that way and we must live out the years the good Lord gives us. Thanks for a provocative letter.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 33 years old, have been married for eight years and have two small children. My husband is ten years my senior -- a quiet man, a good provider who does not like people. Our social life consists of his brother and his wife and a cousin he was raised with. Occasionally he will let me invite a neighbor couple in, but not very often.

The problem is that I have signed up for a study group which meets at our church once a week from 8:00 til 10:00 p.m. My husband refused to join so I go with my sister-in-law. I've always known that I'm not very pretty. I'm presentable. Period. No man would look at me twice. My husband insists that every man in town wants me, including the study group leader who is our pastor.

When I come home from these study group meetings he gives me the third degree although he knows I went with my sister-in-law and came home with her. He also checks the speedometer on the car to make sure I didn't drive anywhere else. He is becoming increasingly suspicious for no reason.

I once read someplace that this is a sign of mental illness. Is it? If so, should I stop going to the study group to please him? Please advise me. ---E.S.A.

Dear E.S.A.: The symptoms you describe sound as if your husband might be mentally ill. Urge him to go for an evaluation. In the meantime, if you give up the study group it will not help him, so continue and enjoy yourself.

Dearn Ann Landers: I have four children under seven years of age. I seem to have enough laundry every day for at least one load -- sometimes two. For some reason this bothers my husband. He says his mother used to wash once a week and she had five kids. I keep telling him I'd rather do one or two loads a day than kill myself on Mondays. What do you say, Ann? -- Missouri Mule (His name for me.)

Dear M.: If you want to wash every day what's it to him? I presume you aren't telling him how to run his work day and he should not be telling you how to run yours.

Women Take Pill By Moon

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Once a month, when the moon is full, thousands of women in Mexico and Chile take an oral contraceptive developed by a Georgia doctor who says it is 90 to 95 per cent effective.

"It does away with the tyranny of taking a pill 365 days a year and reduces it to 12 times a year," said Dr. Robert B. Greenblatt of Augusta, developer of the once-a-month pill.

"Other countries are getting the advantage of it first," said Greenblatt, chairman of the endocrinology department of the Medical College of Georgia. "It's being used extensively in Mexico and Chile.

"It probably will be about 10 years before the Food and Drug Administration allows it in this country," the researcher said in a telephone interview. "It's not an ideal birth control pill, it's about 90 to 95 per cent effective" and has some side effects.

"But it's a satisfactory one, particularly for underdeveloped nations," Greenblatt said. "For example, say in Thailand or Taiwan, or in any country where you have great masses of illiterate people, how do you get them to take a pill every single day?

"The monthly pill, then, is a great boon for them. But how do you explain to them that they should take the pill on the 25th day of their menstrual cycle?

"So, you tell them to take it when the moon is full, so they'll take one once a month. The first month is hazardous for still getting pregnant. But when the body regulates itself to the pill, then it becomes effective," Greenblatt said.

"The pill contains both estrogen, which has a protracted effect so that it acts to prevent ovulation for the next month, and progesterone, which insures a period in the current month."

During latter stages of development several years ago, the monthly pill prevented pregnancy in all 138 trials in 40 Georgia women.

Most of his patients, Greenblatt said, were "enthralled" with not having to remember to take a pill a day.

Six Celebrate Birthdays

The six honorees were seated at the birthday table and were served birthday cake. Mrs. Elmer Gruen led in singing "Happy Birthday."

Mrs. Steven Leroy Benson

Benson-Jordan

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ill. — Before a setting of arched candelabras and pink tapers flanked by arrangements of pink gladiolas and mums and bordered with potted ferns and sprays of palms, Janet Carol Jordan and Steven Leroy Benson exchanged wedding vows. The Rev. W. H. Worth, of Essex, Mo., uncle of the bride, performed the ceremony.

The double-ring ceremony was performed at 2:30 p.m. May 28 at Allison Prairie church of the Bretheran in Lawrenceville.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jordan of Gray Ridge, Mo. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Benson of Lawrenceville are parents of the groom.

The bride wore a gown of white bridal satin, featuring a close-fitted bodice and a jewel neckline, with a belted waistline. Large Victorian sleeves were gathered at the cap and into buttoned cuffs. Thirty tiny satin-covered buttons adorned the floor-length gown from neckline to hem. Softly gathered lace ruffling outlined the bodice front and the chapel-length train.

Matching lace trimmed the elbow length mantilla secured by a Camelot - style cap, ornamented with a hand-sewn, beaded full-bloom rose in each point and a single bud in the center, signifying the oneness of two lives united. The bride's gown and headpiece were fashioned by her aunt, Mrs. Louie Smith.

The bride carried a bouquet composed of white roses, baby's breath, stephanotis and ivy interlaced with white streamers. She observed the traditional something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue.

Prenuptial music was provided by Mrs. Francis Fisher. Soloist Glena Engle sang a selection of wedding songs, closing with the "Wedding Prayer" as the couple knelt for the bestowing of the blessings on their union.

Maid of honor, classmate of the bride, was Miss Marge Schnieder of Brownsville, Ill. She was attired in a blue, floral-printed, floor-length gown, with empire waistline, accented by a ribboned bow and streamers in the birde's favorite color. A picturesque hat, matching her gown, completed her ensemble. Cheryl Benson, sister of the groom, wore a pink floral gown and hat fashioned like the maid of honor's. They carried bouquets of light and dark pink carnations with pink streamers.

Benson chose his cousin, Max Tedford of Lawrenceville, as best man. Groomsman was Stephen Benjamin, a college classmate. Ushers were Roger Jordan of Cape Girardeau, brother of the bride, and Bradley Benson, brother of the groom of Lawrenceville.

At the guest book was Miss Teresa Worth of Essex, cousin of the bride. The groom's maternal and paternal grandmothers, Mrs. Myrtle Tull and Mrs. Anna Benson, both of Lawrenceville, were honored guests. The bride's colors were continued in their corsages of pink carnations.

Mrs. Jordan, mother of the bride, wore a pale pink dress with matching pink accessories. A corsage of pink stephanotis complemented her apparel. Mrs. Benson, mother of the groom, was attired in a light blue dress, with white accessories. Her corsage was composed of blue stephanotis.

The reception was held in the social room of the church. The bride's table was covered with white lace-trimmed cloth. Silver candelabras with pink tapers, crystal and silver service adorned the setting. A three-tiered wedding cake was cut with the traditional white pearl-handled knife and matching server, keepsake gifts for the bride and groom.

The gift table, covered with lace-edged cloth matching the bride's table, featured a centerpiece of summer flowers.

Serving the reception for friends and relatives were classmates of the bride and groom from Oakland City College, Oakland City, Ind., Joyce Hamlett, Betty Norington and Joyce Montgomery.

A rehearsal dinner for the wedding party was given May 27 by the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Benson.

For her wedding trip, the new Mrs. Benson wore a multi-colored jersey dress and matching suede accessories, with a corsage from her wedding bouquet.

The newly married couple is making its home at 602 Maple Drive in Lawrenceville for the summer months. In the fall they will be seniors at Oakland City College.

Attending the wedding were the bride's family, the Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Worth and daughters Teresa and Mrs. David Dowdy and granddaughter Amy Beth, Mrs. Louie Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Elzie Wethington, all of Essex and Teresa Simmons of Sikeston, Mo.

Weed Control In Cotton Discussed

BLOOMFIELD — Numerous calls for information pertaining to postemergence weed control in cotton are coming to the University Extension Center. In response to these requests, let's take a look at postemergence weed control treatments recommended for use from now until lay-by time.

Fluometuron (Cotoran) plus a surfactant may be applied from now until cotton is laid by. It will give fair to good control of most common grasses and broadleaf weeds when applied as a directed spray. This chemical has label clearance for use "over the top" but should be used in this manner only when weeds exceed the height of the cotton. Not more than three applications should be made in any one year.

DSMA or MSMA plus a surfactant may be applied from the time cotton is three inches tall until the first bloom appears. Either chemical will control most annual grasses, seedling cocklebur, and some other broadleaf weeds. Best results from the use of these herbicides are obtained during warm, dry periods.

These chemicals should be applied as a directed spray. Topical applications (over the top) or more than two applications can delay maturity and reduce yield. The burning effect on cotton leaves is usually more serious with MSMA than DSMA.

Flometuron (Cotoran) plus DSMA or MSMA plus a surfactant will give better control of most grasses and broadleaf weeds than will either chemical used alone as a postemergence- directed spray. Follow the same precautions suggested for Flometuron, DSMA or MSMA.

Norea (Herban) plus DSMA or MSMA plus a surfactant may also be applied from the time cotton is three inches tall until the first bloom appears. This herbicide combination will provide good control of most grasses and broadleaf weeds. Two applications may be applied five to seven days apart.

Diuron (Karmex) plus a surfactant may be used as a directed spray from the time cotton is six inches tall until it is laid by. This herbicide will give fair to good control of most grasses and broadleaf weeds. For best results, this chemical should be used when temperature and soil moisture conditions are conducive to good plant growth and weeds are less than three inches tall.

Diuron (Karmex) plus DSMA or MSMA plus a surfactant will provide better control of most grasses and broadleaf weeds than will either chemical used alone. Follow the same precautions suggested for Diuron, DSMA or MSMA.

Prometryne (Caparol) plus DSMA or MSMA plus a surfactant can be used from the time cotton is six inches tall until first bloom.

It should be applied in the same manner as the Diuron plus DSMA or MSMA plus surfactant treatment and will give results similar to those obtained from use of this combination. Best results are obtained when air temperatures are 80 degrees or higher. Not more than two applications should be made before cotton blooms.

Of course, the best weed control treatment to apply will depend upon the specific weed problem in each field. Additional information as to the herbicide or herbicide combination to apply for specific weed problems and the recommended rates of application may be obtained upon request from your county University Extension Center.

TOMMY BRANUM, JR. of near Matthews and Joe Scott, state agronomy specialist, inspect cotton planted in 14 inch rows with a grain drill. The cotton will not be cultivated. Herbicides are used to control the weeds. The Branum's will make one harvest of 180 acres of "narrow row" cotton this fall with a "cotton combine." They are looking for ways to check rising production costs.

Tips Offered On Pasture Management

BENTON — The carrying of a well established Fescue-legume pasture can be increased on a small- cost basis compared to the return.

The use of 100 pounds of nitrogen, 50 pounds of potash and 50 pounds of potassium at a cost of $17.50 per acre, applied in the spring, can increase the yield of a pasture one to one and a half times greater than pasture land with no fertilization. You can increase the carrying capacity of your present pasture 38 per cent by cross fencing and grazing the cattle with rest cycles.

For more information on how to better manage your pasture, prevent erosion and increase your income contact the Soil Conservation Service office in Benton.

Missouri Invaded By Cereal Leaf Beetles

JEFFERSON CITY -- The cereal leaf beetle, equipped with a big mouth and an appetite to match, has come to Missouri, reports State Entomologist Lester Barrows, director of Plant Industry, Missouri Department of Agriculture.

Presence of the beetle was confirmed in three Illinois counties bordering Missouri last year, Barrows says. Surveys this year indicate the pest has spread to all of Southern Illinois and most counties bordering the Mississippi River across from Missouri.

Actual finds in Missouri by Plant Industry inspectors include single beetles in St. C. Charles and St. Louis Counties and several larvae in Jefferson County.

First located in Southwest Michigan in 1962, the cereal leaf beetle -- known scientifically as oulema melanopa -- has since spread throughout the east, from the Mississippi River to the Atlantic. The spread has been mainly to the east because the pest is carried by the wind and prevailing winds blow west to east across the United States.

Teams of state and federal inspectors are cooperating in a survey that will continue through June, searching grain fields for the beetles in all counties bordering the Mississippi River.

According to Barrows, eggs are produced in late April and early May and the adult beetles emerge in June. The pests have destroyed an oat field in three weeks or less, entomologists declare.

On March 1, Missouri farmers reported their intent to produce 250,000 acres of oats this season. Oats and other small grains are the primary target of the beetles. Although the oat acreage is small when compared with soybeans, corn and wheat, any farmer whose oat crop is destroyed faces a great loss.

Methods of control include sprays, releasing of parasites and quarantining east to west shipments of commodities capable of moving beetles, the state entomologist reports. Regulated shipments include small grains, hay and straw and harvesting machinery.

Wheat Products Top Plentiful Foods List

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wheat products top the U.S. Agriculture Department's "Plentiful Foods List" for August.

Other plentifuls include nectarines, fresh vegetables, peanuts and peanut products, broiler-fryers, turkeys and eggs.

Through its Plentiful Foods Program, the department keeps consumers and all segments of the food industry informed about foods expected to be abundant and in need of marketing aid.

The wheat carryover this year of approximately one billion bushels is expected to be the largest in nine years. This will assure ample quantities of grain and of bread, spaghetti, macaroni, noodles and other wheat products.

The department says total supplies of fresh summer vegetables will be seasonally large in August, particularly because of the combination of shipped-in and locally-grown produce. All indications are that the principal vegetables — sweet corn, cucumbers, lettuce, and tomatoes — will be plentiful.

Large plantings and reported good growing conditions indicate a record peanut crop this year, probably exceeding even this year's large demand for peanuts and peanut products.

The department says broilerfryer production in August is expected to top that of a year ago, and attractive consumer prices are in prospect. The expected 26 million pounds of new crop turkey marketings in August will exceed year-earlier marketings by approximately 10 per cent and supplies of consumer-sized turkeys should be ample.

The report says that although August egg production is expected to drop below that of a year ago, eggs continue to be plentiful, and represent an economical buy for food shoppers.

Pasture Herbicides Not Residue Problem

By PHILLIP G. STRYKER
Area Agronomy Specialist

MARBLE HILL — A recent study in Texas has shown that normal use of chemical weed and brush killers offer no problem of residues in the meat of animals that graze pasture land. Dr. Donald E. Clark conducted experiments in feeding silvex, 2,4-D, and 2,4,5-T to sheep and cattle.

Cattle producers have been concerned that intake of herbicides from treated range might possibly result in contamination of meat. The team of scientists have found that residue levels in the meat readily disappeared.

For example, cattle slaughtered within 24 hours from the time of ingestion of the herbicide had less than one part per million of residue in the muscle and no more than eight parts per million residue in the liver and fat. After 7 days, which is the withdrawal period recommended, the residue levels had decreased to less than one part per million in any of the animal tissue.

The interesting point of this study indicates that both cattle and sheep respond alike, and that the muscle of both animals had the least amount of residue of all animal tissue.

Since most animals are usually held over more than one day prior to slaughter, the residues in any livestock should not be any cause for concern based on the information from this testing. Most livestock are sent to a feedlot prior to slaughter and would likewise further diminish the level of contamination.

More May Get Rural Housing Loans

COLUMBIA — Many additional families in Missouri are now eligible for rural housing loans from the Farmers Home Administration, according to FHA State Director John O. Foster.

"In families where both husband and wife are employed," Foster explained, "the new policy permits half of the wife's gross income to be excluded in determining whether the total family income is within the maximum limit for loan eligibility."

For example, the husband is the principal source of income with $6,000. His wife earns $4,000. His entire income, plus half of his wife's, or $2,000, total $8,000. This is within Missouri's moderate income level of $8,000 so the family may be eligible for a Farmers Home Administration loan.

James V. Smith, national administrator of Farmers Home Administration, emphasized that newly- eligible families must demonstrate that they otherwise merit FHA financing, and that credit is not available from regular commercial sources.

"The new policy will assist families in which the wife's income is needed to improve the standard of living. Note that if the wife is the principal breadwinner, the rule does not apply. This change will in no way affect our expanding service to low- income families," Smith said.

Loans may be made to families who will buy or build homes in open country or towns of up to 10,000 population, and who are not able to secure credit from regular commercial sources.

Complete information is available from the agency's 74 offices in Missouri, or from Bobby R. Hicks, county supervisor, by phoning 471-1014 or writing to Box 727, Sikeston, Mo. 63801.

Weed Control Tour To Be Held June 30

PORTAGEVILLE — According to John Garrett, area agronomy specialist, a special tour of the Delta Center weed control experimental plots will be held at Portageville Friday, June 30.

This tour will be primarily for farmers and dealers in the Bootheel. The tour will begin at 9 a.m. at the Delta Center farm, six miles southeast of Portageville on Route T.

All Scott County farmers are urged to attend this informative tour. It will be completed by noon.

Results of many weed control practices used in cotton and soybeans will be studied. Many of the chemicals have been used for some time and some of them are still in the experimental stage.

Pond Owners Alerted To Safety Precautions

JEFFERSON CITY — The Missouri Department of Agriculture, in cooperation with the American Red Cross, the National Safety Council and the U.S. Department of Agriculture, urges owners and operators of farm ponds to take every precaution necessary to provide for their safe use this summer.

"There are approximately 150,000 farm ponds in Missouri," Commissioner of Agriculture Dexter Davis notes, "and more are being constructed each year. More and more of these are being used for recreation purposes. Every summer drownings occur in farm ponds, most of them young people. All citizens, especially owners and operators of the ponds, should do what they can to prevent these tragedies."

The agencies, cooperating in promoting National Water Safety Month during June, advise farmers to place proper warning notice and fencing around farm ponds, to provide fundamental life saving equipment and instructions on what to do in emergencies and to fence off or cover irrigation ditches or other water channels where people often pass nearby.

Specific instructions released on safety around farm ponds include the following:

-- Never swim alone.

-- Mark off safe swimming areas with buoyed lines and remove underwater snags, trash, bottles and the like.

-- Avoid swimming in areas immediately in front of steep sloping banks.

-- Post warning signs at danger points.

-- Supervise children closely at all times.

-- Non- swimmers should not depend on an innertube or any other flotation device.

-- If the pond is used for swimming, the water should be checked and approved by the local health department and rechecked periodically.

-- If practical, erect an adequate fence around the pond with a locked gate to prevent unsupervised use by children.

-- Post emergency instructions, telephone numbers and provide a pole or other reaching device for use as an assiste to floundering swimmers.

-- Have an adequate first aid kit available.

-- Enforce common sense safety rules. At least one responsible person should know how to administer artificial respiration, perform basic reaching rescues and give first aid.

Farm Ownership Loan Lid Rises To $100,000

Bobby R. Hicks, county supervisor of the Farmers Home Administration office serving Scott and Mississippi counties is now in a position to make farm ownership loans in amounts up to $100,000.

This new loan authority is a result of a recent change in national policy which has been several years in the making. The old loan limit was $60,000 and was entirely inadequate to help any significant number of farmers.

With the new authority, Hicks feels that a greater number of farmers will be able to purchase farms with a Farmers Home Administration long- term real estate loan. The current terms of Farmers Home Administration farm ownership loans are 40 years maximum at five per cent interest rate.

Hicks pointed out that in an effort to assist more young farmers to become owners, Farmers Home Administration and Federal Land Bank have entered into an agreement whereby both agencies can make joint loans.

The joint effort will make available a significant portion of the cridit needed for the farmers to purchase land, Hicks said.

Hicks indicated that anyone over 21 years of age who is actively engaged in farming and who has a good record for farm management and debt payment is eligible for consideration for a loan.

Anyone interested in discussing the farm ownership loan program should contact the Farmers Home Administration Office at 106 East Center Street, Sikeston, Mo.

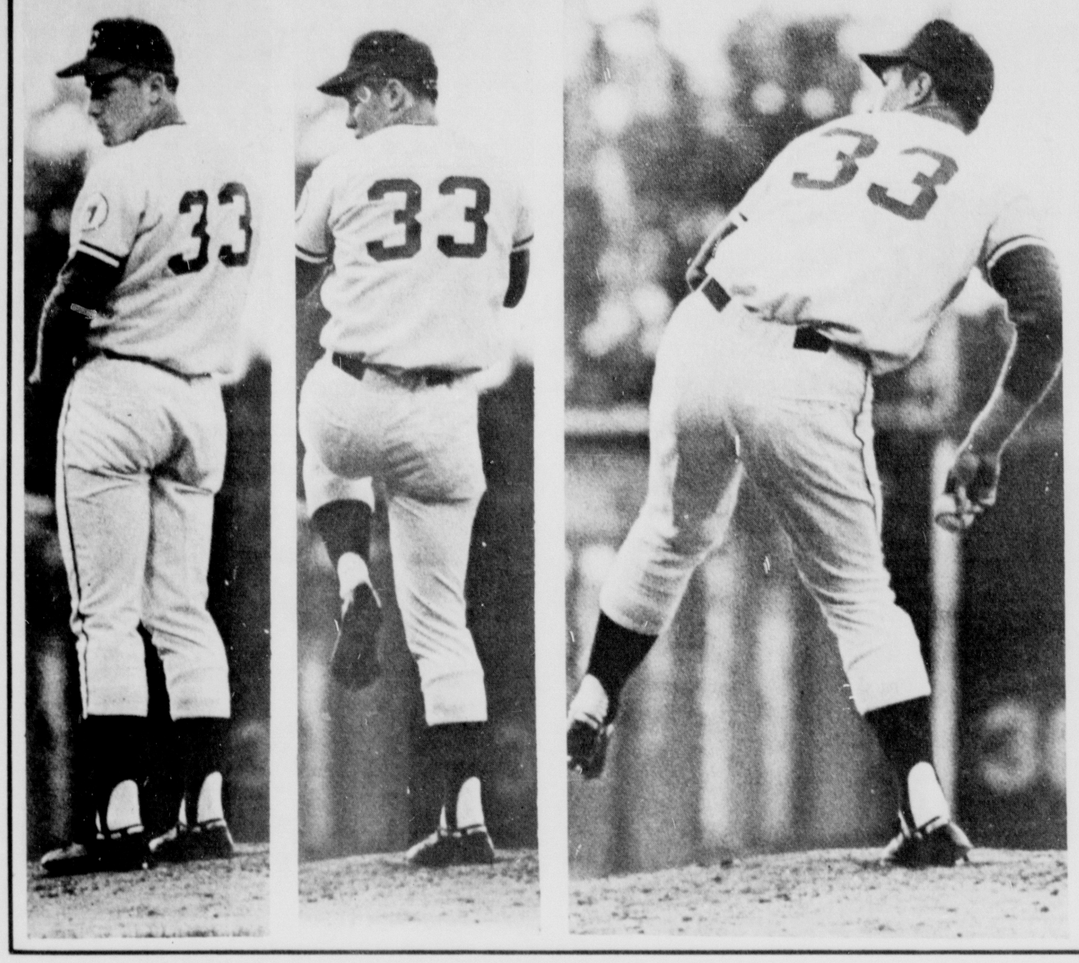

Certification Deadline Is July 3

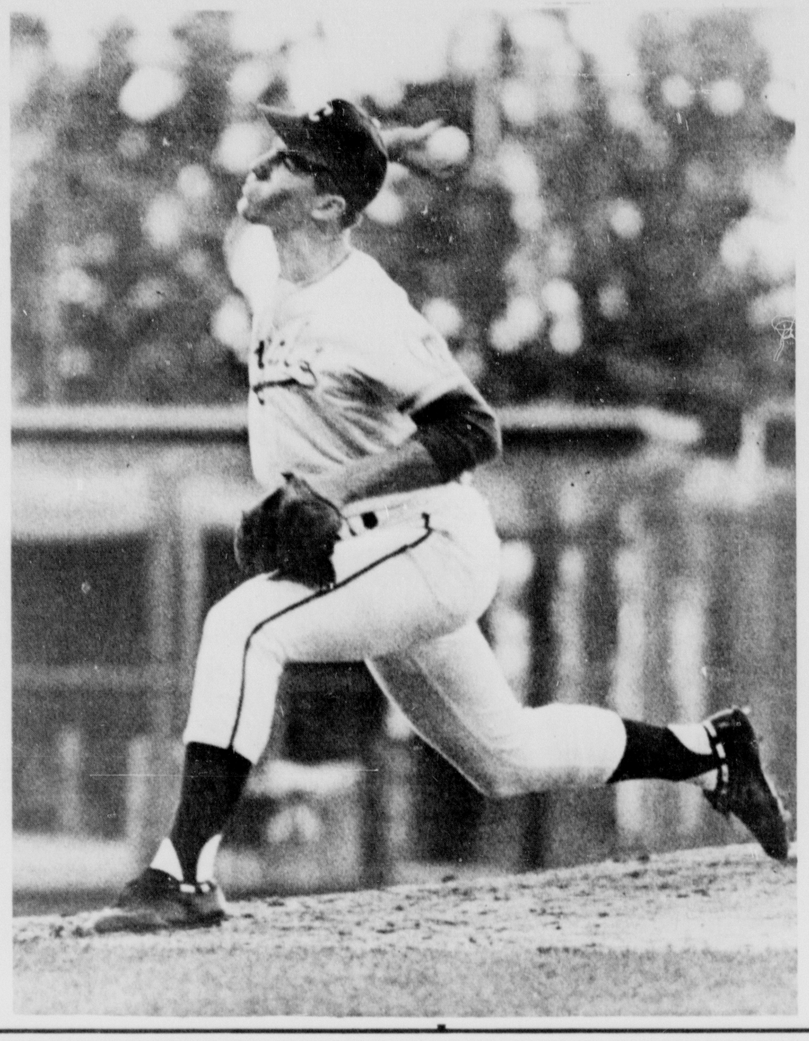

Farmers who have not completed their final farm acreage certification are reminded that the deadline is Monday, July 3.

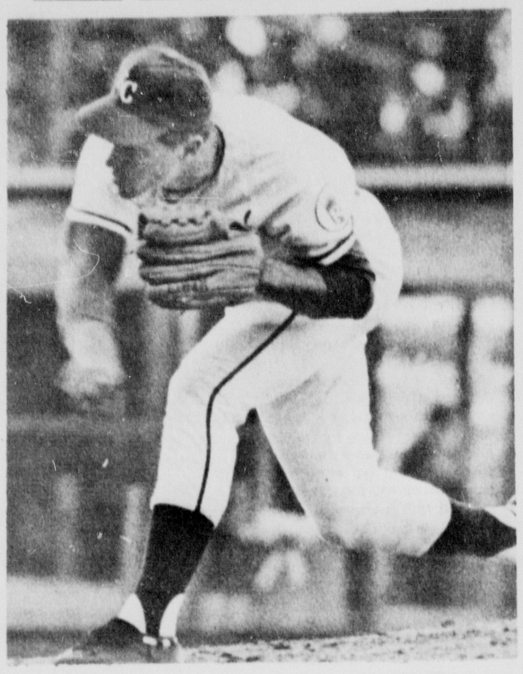

Program payments cannot be processed until final certification is made.

Football Season Begins

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — The football season officially begins tonight with the 12th annual Coaches All-America game between the East and West, featuring many of the best of the 1971 crop of college seniors.

The game is the harbinger for the 1972 football season, which will run until next January.

Paul Bryant of Alabama is the East coach and Oklahoma's Chuck Fairbanks handles the West.

The West is a one touchdown favorite because of its high octane offense with quarterbacks Jerry Tagge of national champion Nebraska and Jack Mildren of Oklahoma at the controls.

Tagge will operate at quarterback when Fairbanks wants to run the offense from I or spread formations. Mildren will handle the Wishbone-T attack.

Paul Miller or North Carolina and Joe Gilliam of Tennessee State are the quarterbacks for the East.

"I think both teams will throw the ball but it won't be the typical all-star game where you throw the ball three times and punt," Bryant said.

Johnny Musso of Alabama Billy Taylor of Michigan, Curt Watson of Tennessee and Lewis Jolley of North Carolina make up Bryan'ts East running-back corps.

Jeff Kinney of Nebraska, Bernard Jackson of Washington State, Bill Butler of Kansas State and Tom Mozieck of Houston will handle the West running chores.

Defensive lineman Larry Jacobson of Nebraska and cornerback Willie Buchanan of San Diego State anchor the West defense while linebacker Ray Nettles of Tennessee and defensive back Tom Darden of Michigan carry the most impressive credentials among the East defenders.

The West has a 6-5 lead in the series and won last year's game, 33-28, in the last 31 seconds.

Charlie Dye and Larry Lancaster manage the Sikeston 13-year-old squad. Larry Keller was slated to be the starting pitcher for Sikeston. The starting lineup in batting order included Dale Deal, shortstop. Bob Leible, third base; Gary Griffin, catcher; Kenny Standridge, second base; Jeff Limbaugh, first base; Derek Lefler, left field; Bill Hampton, center field; Mark Silverthorn, right field; and Keller.

Pond Deadline Near

JEFFERSON CITY – Missouri has about one-third million farm ponds – the Show-Me State's answer to Minnesota's "Land of 10,000 Lakes" claim – and they provide as much good fishing water acreage as a couple of Lakes of the Ozarks.

That is, if they have fish in them. A hole in the ground, filled with water, is a hole in the ground filled with water. But a hole in the ground, filled with water and stocked free by the Department of Conservation is a fishing pond.

Deadline for applications for fish to stock Missouri ponds which now don't have fish is July 15. If the application is approved, the Department will stock newly renovated or new ponds with the proper ratio of bass, bluegill and channel catfish.

Applications are available from the county conservation agent or from some agricultural agencies such as the Extension Office. A pond must be eight feet deep at the deepest part, must have water and shoreline protected from livestock, must have a permanent and water- tight dam and must not have any fish in it when stocked.

The pond stocking program has been one of the most popular services offered by the Department of Conservation. More than 76,000 ponds have been stocked free. Fish are distributed in September or October at a central location in each county. The pond owner or a representative may pick up the fish then.

"Missouri's farm ponds are a priceless resource," says Charles Purkett, chief of Fisheries for the Department of Conservation. "Many of our services are kind of intangible -- maybe no more than expert advice. But the pond stocking program is a highly visible and productive service and one that we are delighted to offer." About one- fourth of all fishing trips are made in farm ponds.

7 wrong reasons for having a baby:

1. "You're married a year now. When are you going to give us grandchildren?"
2. "You want to have a kid, Evelyn? All right, we'll have a kid. Maybe that'll patch things up."
3. "Why knock myself out working when I can have a baby?"
4. "I bet my parents would send us money if we had a baby . . ."
5. "Heh-heh, hey Frankie, what are you and Margie waiting for?
6. "We only want two kids. But if we don't have a boy we'll keep trying!"
7. "Sure I want babies. What else is a woman for?"

Photos by Leonard Nones

These are just seven of the many wrong reasons for having a baby.

There's only one right reason: because you really want one.

And the right time is when you want one. When the baby can be a welcome addition, not an accidental burden.

Unfortunately lots of people who think they know how to go about birth planning don't. (Research statistics show that more than half the pregnancies each year are accidental!)

That's not having babies for wrong reasons.

That's just being wrong.

Ali Predicts Win

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Muhammad Ali admits Jerry Quarry might be stronger than he and hit harder.

"But I'm skillful and creative and artistic and I'll beat him," the former world heavyweight boxing champion declares of his Tuesday night 12-round bout against the Southern California Irishman.

"I've boxed against stronger men and beat them," Ali adds. "I hit hard enough to hurt and I've boxed so regular and I'm hitting so fast that I'll win.

"Thinking and speed wins heavyweight fights, not just strength."

Quarry had declared earlier he was the physically stronger of the two and would put pressure on Ali in this rematch of their 1970 bout in Atlanta when the Irishman was cut in the third round and the fight stopped.

Ali stands to earn $500,000 for the Quarry fight at the Las Vegas Convention Center yet he looks ahead to an even bigger payday, another multi-million dollar meeting with Joe Frazier, the heavyweight king who beat him last year.

"He's got to fight me to clear the slate," the ex-champ said after Friday's workout.

Ali ranks as the No. 1 heavyweight contender and Quarry No. 2. On the same card, Jerry's brother Mike challenges champion Bob Foster for the light-heavyweight title.

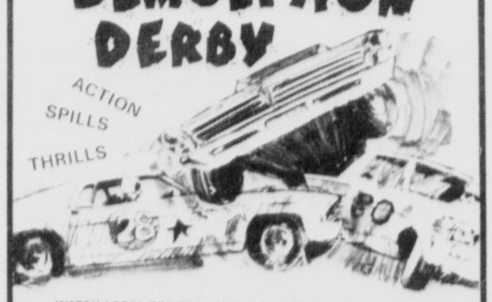

At Friday's training session at Caesar's Palace, the crowd of about 2,000 was told, "Muhammad Ali has enjoyed entertaining you the past sevel days, but as the time of the fight approaches, he asks that you help make this a serious training session."

Quarry, who at about 197 pounds will be about 20 pounds lighter than Ali, said of the first fight, "I learned then I had nothing to fear. He can't punch hard."

MISSOURI'S BULLFROG SEASON begins at sunset June 30 and will run until midnight Nov. 30. Daily and possession limit is eight. Bullfrogs may be taken either by hunting or fishing methods, but the frogger must have the appropriate permit.

Pitchers Take Over

Arlin 1-Hits Giants

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Steve Arlin's two-hitter against Pittsburgh last Sunday was a hard act to follow but he managed to do it with a onehitter against San Francisco.

The San Diego Padres' ri ghthander was brilliant the way against the Giants Friday night but he still needed a three-run homer by Nate Colbert in the eighth inning to give the Padres a 4-1 National League victory.

Arlin and Giant left-hander Sam McDowell locked in a pitching duel that lasted until Colbert's shot. Garry Maddox got San Francisco's only hit when he tripled in the second and scored on a sacrifice fly by Alan Gallagher.

"It was the same pitch I struck out two batters on in the first inning," Arlin said.

Arlin, 7-6, walked three and struck out eight while McDowell, 8-5, walked four and struck out four in seven full innings.

In other National League baseball games, Cincinnati thumped Houston 7-1, Los Angeles edged Atlanta 2-1, Pittsburgh defeated Chicago 4-2, Montreal trimmed Philadelphia 2-1 and St. Louis at New York was rained out.

Cincinnati regained first in the NL West as Ross Grimsley pitched a five-hitter and was backed by Jonny Bench's 19th homer of the year. Bench's three-run circuit in the fourth, a single run in the fifth and three runs in the eighth gave the Reds a half-game lead on Houston.

The Astros scored their lone run when Grimsley cut loose a wild pitch in the ninth with a man on third.

Frank Robinson's 10th homer won the game for Los Angeles before its largest home crowd of the season, 53,107. His sixthinning shot following Willie Davis' double put him in a tie with Eddie Mathews and Ernie Banks for career homers with 513. The Braves loaded the bases with none out in the seventh but managed just one run.

Robert Clemente drove in two runs with a windblown triple as the Pirates rallied for three runs in the fourth. The victory over Chicago was Steve Blass' eighth straight and raised his record to 9-1.

Right-hander Mike Torrez, 83, of Montreal and the Phils' Jim Nash pitched scoreless ball for seven innings before Osc ar Gamble drove in a Philadelphia run. The Expos loaded the bases in the eighth and Ron Fairly singled in one run and Ron Woods drove in the winner with a sacrifice fly.

Brett Limits Boston

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

On "Ten Cents A Beer Night" in Milwaukee, the Brewers rolled out the barrel and had themselves some fun.

A crowd of 20,865 turned out to take advtange of the beer sale and watch the Brewers play Boston. And some of the patrons might have thought they had tipped one too many when they saw the "6" go up on the scoreboard for the home team in the fifth inning.

The home team Brewers, in case you haven't noticed, have not exactly been tearing up baseball's American League. Only three times all month had they scored as many as six runs in an entire game and here was the scoreboard man asking the fans to believe six runs in a single inning. Was he in the beer too?

Nope. It was true. The Brewers did indeed have a six-run inning and wound up whipping Boston 8-1.

Elsewhere in the American League Friday night, New York tripped Cleveland 4-1, Kansas City shut out Minnesota 5-0, Texas edged Chicago 4-3 and California beat Oakland 2-1. Detroit's game at Baltimore was rained out.

Ken Brett allowed just three hits in eight innings to earn the Brewers' sudsy victory—his first triumph since May 10. Did it mean anything special since it came against his ex-teammates? Not at all.

"I'm glad to win even if it's against the girl's softball team across the street," said Brett. "I've got a long way to come back. I haven't won in six weeks.'

The Yankees stretched their winning streak to six games—longest in two years. Fritz Peterson earned the victory on a six-hitter.

Bernie Allen drove in New York's first two runs with a third inning homer, his first of the year.

The victory left third place New York 5½ games be hind Detroit in th American League's East Division.

John Mayberry had a big night for Kansas City, driving in four runs, three of them on an eighth inning homer as the Royals whipped Minnesota.

Dick Billings' eighth inning single drove home the winning run for Texas as the Rangers knocked off Chicago.

Ted Ford and Frank Howard both rocked knuckleballer Wilbur Woof for Texas home runs. But Howard, for one, was impressed with the floater.

Jaycees Host Golf Tourney

Sikeston Jaycees will hold their annual Jaycee Duffer's Tournament Sunday at Sikeston Country Club.

More than $500 in trophies and golf prizes will be awarded winners in six classes.

A Cheater's class has been added for the benefit of better golfers who wish to play, giving them a shot at the same prizes the duffers win in their five classes.

Tom Nunnelee, tournament chairman, said the new class will not affect the scores of duffers, but will eliminate the possibility of any better golfer turning in a good score and shooting himself out of the tournament. So, in effect, everyone who plays has a chance to be a winner. The five other classes are Championship, A, B, C, and D classes. There are four prizes in each class.

A shotgun start will ignite the action at noon. Golfers are advised to get their foursomes together and register anytime after 9 a.m. Sunday at the country club. If any singles and doubles come to participae, they will be paired by the tournament committee when they sign in.

A good turnout is expected and any golfer wishing to play may enter the tournament.

Rain Grounds Birds

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

John Mayberry drove in four runs for the Kansas City Royals Friday night. The St. Louis Cardinals game with the Mets in New York was postponed by rain.

Mayberry hammered in three of the Royals' runs in the eighth inning with his sixth homer of the campaign as Kansas City downed the Minnesota Twins 5-0 behind the seven-hit pitching of Paul Splittorff, 6-4.

A Mayberry single drove the first run across in the sixth after Splittorff and Jim Perry, 6-6, had engaged in a tight pitching battle. It scored Richie Scheinblum, who had singled and gone to second when Tony Oliva bobbled the ball.

In the eighth, Lou Piniella doubled, Ed Kirkpatrick was hit with a pitch, and Scheinblum singled, scoring Piniella. Then came Mayberry's big blow.

Splittorff, the Royals' biggest winner, had difficulties in each of the first six innings but wiggled out of trouble each time mostly because he struck out nine Twins.

Both the Royals and the Cardinals had afternoon games scheduled today. The Royals were to meet the Twins again in Kansas City, pitching Jim Rooker, 3-4, against Jim Kaat, 8-2.

The Cardinals' mound choice was Reggie Cleveland, 6-4, whose opponent was the Mets' ace, Tom Se aver, 9-3.

Bullets Get 'Big E'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Coach Gene Shue of the Baltimore Bullets will face a dual challenge next season: rebuild the National Basketball Association team and find a way to handle Elvin Hayes.

Both projects were set in motion Friday night when the Bullets acquired the controversial "Big E" from the Houston Rockets in exchange for Jack Marin and undisclosed "future considerations."

Although the Bullets won division titles in three of the last four seasons, their record has dropped steadily from 57-25 in 1968-69, to 38-44 last year. Shue figured it was time to make a move.

"When you have a damned good team, changes aren't necessary," he said. "But if you're on a downward spiral, it's silly to sit back and accept it. With this trade, I think we face the prospect of turning the tide."

Marin, a 27-year-old, 6-foot-6 forward, averaged 16.7 points per game in six NBA seasons, including a career high 22.3 last year when he was named to the All-Star team for the first time.

Hayes, a 6-9 center who is a year younger, has averaged 27.4 points and 16.3 rebounds per game in four seasons. He also was among the league leaders in personality conflicts.

In Houston, President Ray Patterson of the Rockets said Hayes was not traded because of his differences with Coach Tex Winter. And Shue said, "With a change in location, we hope Elvin will have a change in attitude."

Hayes has scored more points, 8,996, than any other player during the past four years and his 5,351 rebounds ranks second only to his new teammate, Wes Unseld.

Shue said Hayes would open at center, but play outside to take advantage of his shooting. Unseld will continue to play inside as a forward, and possibly play center against certain opponents.

With his acquisition, the Bullets finally will be able to shift the 6-7½ Unseld from center to forward.

In the 1968 college draft, the now defunct San Diego Rockets won a coin toss with Baltimore for the No. 1 choice and selected Hayes. The Bullets then took Unseld.

Hayes led the NBA that season with a 28.4 scoring average. But Unseld was named both the Rookie of the Year and the league's Most Valuable Player.

Plan ahead. That way, you'll be as mixed-up as the rest of us.

Fish Kill Estimate

JEFFERSON CITY — An estimate of $16,820.20 damages has been made by Department of Conservation water quality biologists in the aftermath of a fish kill which claimed an officially estimated 222,000 fish in the south fork of the Salt River.

The kill resulted from a spill of an estimated 93,000 gallons of fuel oil from a storage tank at Kaiser - Mexico Refractories at Mexico.

The damage estimate was prepared by Frank Ryck, who also investigated the fish kill for the Department of Conservation. Such estimates use an assigned value for fish depending on species.

The estimate was turned over to the Attorney General's office. "It figures out to be about $500 a mile," Ryck said. About 30 miles of the stream had nearly all aquatic life wiped out by the oil.

Ryck said the kill estimate was very conservative and represented only visible fish. The river normally is murky and, in cold water, dead fish tend to sink to the bottom, so probably all that were counted were fish which floated into riffles and shallows.

Investigation of the massive kill involved both the state Conservation Department and Clean Water Commission and the federal Environmental Protection Agency.

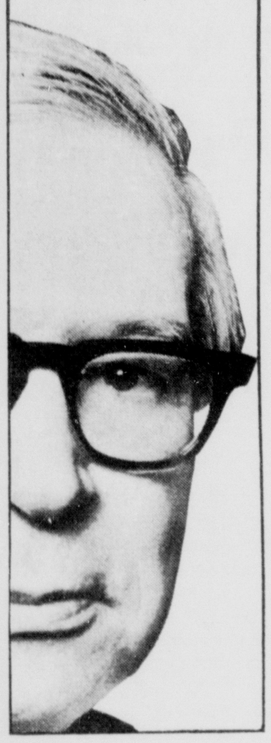

The oil spill apparently had gone on for several days before area residents reported it to Gene Baldwin, Audrain County Conservation agent. Most of the damage took place the first week of April.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Saturday, June 24, the 176th day of 1972. There are 190 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1948, the Soviet Union began the Berlin Blockade, halting Allied land traffic between the isolated city and West Germany.

On this date:

In 1497, the first recorded discovery of the mainland of North America occurred as the explorer, John Cabot, sighted land between Halifax and southern Labrador.

In 1520, the Spanish conqueror of Mexico, Hernando Cortez, entered Mexico City.

In 1793, the first republican constitution in France was adopted.

In 1940, in World War II, the French government of Marshal Petain signed an armistice with Italy.

In 1947, the House of Representatives overrode a veto by President Harry S. Truman and enacted the Taft-Hartley Act to deal with labor disputes.

Ten years ago: It was disclosed that Canada had been forced to arrange for more than $1 billion in loans and credit to bolster the sagging Canadian dollar.

Five years ago: Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin, on a visit to the United States, was a sightseer at Niagra Falls.

One year ago: A gas explosion killed 17 men in a water tunnel near Los Angeles.

Thought for today: The spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh is weak. The Bible.

Men Ordered Drafted May Join Reserves

WASHINGTON (AP) — Men ordered drafted in early July were given a fresh chance today to beat the draft by joining the Reserves or National Guard.

They also were offered another chance to enlist in the regular forces for two years, instead of the usual three or more, and gain a wider choice of assignments than draftees.

Today's announcements reflect Selective Service moves to implement two new policies, one permitting men to opt for the Guard or Reserves after getting their draft notices, and the other permitting the shorter enlistment period.

The new rule says a man may not join a unit or enlist for less than three years within 10 days of his induction date. That would have left out most of those ordered to report early next month, but today Acting Draft Director Byron V. Pepitone eased the rule.

Pepitone authorized draft boards to grant a 15-day delay for men with reporting dates between July 1 and July 15 if they are actively being processed for Reserve or Guard appointment or two-year enlistment.

But he said this policy will not be extended to men who are on orders to report for Army duty this month.

The chance for men facing certain draft to join the Reserve or National Guard was opened up in hopes of filling some of the growing shortages in those forces.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird and Deputy Secretary Kenneth Rush recently expressed concern because the Guard and Reserves have dropped an estimated 40,000 below strength as draft pressures eased.

Pepitone said men who want to take advantage of the new policy must locate unit vacancies on their own and should request that their enlistments or appointments be expedited to meet the 10-day requirement.

A man is given 30 days notice to report or start hunting for a Reserve or National Guard slot.

Youths Work Without Pay To Keep Hotel Open

CARTHAGE, Mo. (AP) — For nearly two weeks, Pam Cole, 21, Mark Thompson, 17, and Charles West, 13, ran the old four-story Drake Hotel, caring for 26 mostly elderly tenants.

The owners, Mr. and Mrs. Owen Dale Spear, walked out early June 4. They told a tenant they were moving to the country.

Hardly anyone in Carthage, a town of about 11,500 persons in southwest Missouri, noticed the disappearance of the Spears' until the water and electric company threatened to shut off utilities June 14. The action alerted Mayor John C. Sheldon.

Then it was disclosed that Pam, Mark and Charles had been working from 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. daily to keep the four-story apartment hotel operating.

The three young people have received no wages since April.

"They (the owners) said they were going to pay us in cash because they were having a little trouble with checks," said Charles. "But I wasn't thinking about that, I was just thinking about the people in the hotel."

Besides operating the elevator, Charles also served as desk clerk, bus boy and helped with the cleaning.

Pam and Mark also did everything from cooking and serving meals to cleaning and mopping up.

"I didn't feel like I could just leave them without anybody— what would they do?" said Miss Cole. "Most of them have been here some length of time. I just couldn't leave them like that, I think too much of them."

Mark echoed the comments of Pam and Charles. "Somebody had to stay," he said.

George Guinn, one of the residents, said, "the young people did a splendid job. Yes sir, they sure deserve a lot of credit."

Mayor Sheldon gained a stay of execution from the utility companies and the Jasper County Social Services Corporation agreed to manage the facility until a new operator can be found.

Meanwhile, the Security Bank of nearby Fort Scott, Kan., has asked the Small Business Administration to foreclose an SBA-guaranteed $65,000 loan to the Spears. A foreclosure sale is set for July 13.

A spokesman for the SBA regional office in Kansas City, Edward Farmer Jr., said the government hopes that whoever buys the property will continue to operate the hotel.

The solid, fire-proof structure, built by public subscription in 1921, has been "a civic institution", said Farmer. "We're going to do the best we can to keep it open for the people in Carthage."

Bootheel Food Project To End

PORTAGEVILLE — A $276,000 emergency food program serving six Missouri Bootheel counties will end June 30, C. B. Huber, executive director of a Bootheel antipoverty agency, said Wednesday.

Huber, head of the Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation (DAEOC), said the Office of Economic Opportunity's regional office at Kansas City "informed me Tuesday that the program definitely will end June 30."

The Bootheel program is being phased out, he said, because the national emergency food program has not been refunded.

The DAEOC project involves delivering food commodities to 2,200 Bootheel families, "mostly elderly and homebound folks," Huber said.

The families, he said, are located in Mississippi, Scott and Stoddard counties.

DAEOC's program in Pemiscot, Dunklin an New Madrid counties, helping persons obtain food stamps and educating them in their use, also will end, according to Mr. Huber.

Thirty- two DAEOC employes will become unemployed, he said.

DAEOC's other programs, he said, will continue. They include supervising the Neighborhood Youth Corps, Operation Mainstream, Operation Head Start, a vocational training program and job placement and family services programs.

Disadvantaged Youth Camp Donors Needed

BLOOMFIELD — University of Missouri Extension Division will conduct a camp for disadvantaged youths again this summer.

The five- day camp will be held July 24-28 and will emphasize education, recreation, human relations and human development. It provides an opportunity for these youths to participate in activities that many Americans take for granted.

The camp is held at the Missouri 4-H Camp at Lake Wappapello where facilities are donated by the Southeast Missouri 4-H Association.

Although the nutrition and education assistance branch of university extension services sponsors and nominates children, other children may be nominated by the welfare board, various civic groups or individuals.

Each camper is financed solely through contributions and the cost of the five- day camp is $25 per camper.

The fee provides meals and lodging, refreshments three times each day, a grooming kit, insurance, supplies for crafts and other incidentals for each camper. Counselors, instructors and other personnel are volunteers.

At the present time, the Extension Center is in the process of soliciting financial support from various civic groups to help sponsor the disadvantaged youth camp.

Any organization, business or individual interested in helping the camp through financial contributions should contact Dee Goedeke at the University of Missouri Extension Center in Bloomfield or Benton. Phone numbers respectively are 568-3344 and 545-3517.

Pemiscot City Councils Approve Landfill Fees

HAYTI — The city councils of Hayti, Caruthersville and Steele met for little over an hour at Hayti Monday night to discuss the the refuse- landfill situation in the county and voted to assure the court that charges to run the landfill operation at Triangle Boat Club will be implemented.

The court's idea is to charge $1 per household per month in each of the three cities. This would be collected each month in the form of a check from each city payable to the court. The added dollar per household each month will be charged on the water bill and the first payment to the county court will be due the middle of August.

As a result of a meeting last week between mayors of Hayti, Caruthersville and Steele and the presiding judge of the Pemiscot County Court, it was decided that the landfill will be county- operated for use by the three cities and county residents on a fee basis. Jack Darnell of Hayti is currently building a levee for the third side of a triangular- shaped landfill at the boat club.

Darnell told the councils: "We can get the landfill operation started within a month and pay for expenses and equipment by charging $1 per household per month. If the three cities can take care of their garbage pickup and disposal without charging anything extra, that's fine. All I want is an agreement on the dollar."

Mayor Bill Inman of Caruthersville said that although the dump will be ready to go by the first of July, "for the first two weeks just the three cities will be dumping at the site to see how it works out. Then people in the county can begin to bring their garbage to the landfill site for disposal."

County residents will be charged for disposal at the gate. They will be charged $1.50 if they bring garbage in their car, $3 for a pickup truck, $7.50 for a bob truck and $15 for a trailer. Two fulltime employes will be at the site.

Inman mentioned to the councils that he believes it will be necessary for each of the cities to also charge a certain amount per household in order to make the landfill operation work.

The mayor said he is reasonably sure that Caruthersville and Steele will charge $1.50 per household per month which will be collected on the water bill each month. This makes the water bill total per household per month for garbage disposal at $2.50. The Hayti city council discussed charges for nearly two hours but no decision was made.

The new charge of $2.50 per month per household would be in addition to the 50 cent per $100 assessed valuation now charged for the sanitation fund in Caruthersville.

Broken down, this includes $9,192 from Steele (766 households), $16,440 from Hayti (1,370 households), $30,420 from Caruthersville (2,535 households) and $4,000 from the county to be collected on a fee basis.

Inman pointed out that the Pemiscot County sanitary landfill fund must take in $60,000 plus in order to get the future site ready for use in two years.

Hayti Votes July 3 On Annexation

HAYTI — A long- awaited special election to determine whether voters desire to annex additional property has been set for July 3.

A resolution setting the date of the election was approved by the board of aldermen Monday night.

If the annexation proposal meets approval of Hayti voters, the city will be enlarged by several hundred acres.

It is anticipated that at least two new residential subdivisions will be developed if annexation is approved, and several new businesses, including a 100- unit Holiday Inn are anticipated.

The ballot for the Special Election will read as follows:

Question: Shall the corporate boundaries of the City of Hayti, Missouri, be extended so as to include the additional territory proposed to be annexed to said city? The voter is then given the choice of placing an X mark either in the Yes or No box.

The last legal step necessary to the legality of the election was taken Tuesday morning when Hayti city officials represented by City Attorney "Tick" Vickrey asked for and received a declaratory judgment in Pemiscot County Circuit Court, thereby clearing the way for the special election on July 3.

There will be only one polling place for the election, the assembly room on the second floor of the city hall. The polls will be open at 6 a.m. and will remain open till 7 p.m.

Judges and clerks of the election will be as follows: Sarah Moss, Effie Ings, Betty Garrett, Flora Carter, Pat Turnage and Lillian Gaither.

Town Board Named For Tallapossa

NEW MADRID — A five- member town board has been appointed by New Madrid County Court to hold office until successors are named in a special election in a move to reactivate town government at Tallapoosa.

The appointments were made after a majority of the residents presented a signed petition making the request to the county court. State law makes no provision for reactivating town boards.

Incorporated in 1924 the town of 240 is two and one- half miles south of Risco.

Residents are taking action to get a town board functioning so the town will be eligible for gas tax refunds and federal grants to provide water, sewer and other improvements.

Named to the board are Orby Taylor, Hurschell Deprow, Leo Deprow, C. W. Craig and Mrs. Elizabeth Abshier.

No date has been set for the election.

JOHN HART: THE ANATOMY OF A CONVENTION

"If you wanted to, you could find enough to do to fill a 30-hour day," says CBS News Correspondent John Hart of the activities of a reporter at a national political convention.

Hart, who covered both national party conventions in 1968, will do the same this year while continuing as anchorman for the CBS MORNING NEWS WITH JOHN HART, broadcast each weekday morning on the CBS Television Network (6:00 - 7:00 A.M.).

The mystery is: when will Hart sleep? The conventions convene each day at 7 p.m. and end as late as 1 a.m. the next morning, and then Harts starts writing for his early morning broadcast by at least 4 a.m. and then there are the committee meetings and states' caucuses every morning.

But it's no mystery why he would want to undertake what will be a grueling schedule.

"It's the greatest show on earth -- well rehearsed acts, fascinating displays of ego, ambition, vanity, combined with the most serious aspirations of a people and its leaders," says Hart.

"Moreover, the public is well aware that a convention is a trial for candidates, but it's also a rigorous test of a journalist. Under the most distracting circumstances, when you're physically tired, and information is usually sketchy and hard to get, the reporter must see through the temporary spectacle to the significant event or trend.

"To a good reporter, the challenge of getting a story under such conditions is tantalizing. And what's beautiful about a convention is that, as a news story, it seems to be complete. From gavel to gavel, it has a beginning, a middle and an end -- a structure. Normally, the journalist can only report bits and pieces of a story which unfolds its full details over a long period of time. Of course, all kinds of inside information about a convention come out long after the last gavel, but the structure of the event is very attractive to the journalist.

"Then there are the people one views so closely at these times. Aside from candidates, many of those who surround them are the same people you'll be reporting on for a long time -- perhaps as cabinet members of the White House aides, if they've affixed themselves to the right man. You identify them at a convention and later watch them grow."

Joining Hart on the "floor" will be Correspondents, Dan Rather, Mike Wallace, Roger Mudd and Morton Dean. Correspondent Walter Cronkite will anchor CBS News' convention coverage, joined by National Correspondent Eric Sevareid and Theodore H. White, a long-time political consultant to CBS News. for analysis.

CBS News will broadcast live gavel-to gavel coverage of the Democratic Convention, beginning Monday, July 10, and the Republican Convention, beginning Monday, Aug. 21. on the Network.

Biography

Don MacLaughlin

Chris Hughes In As The World Turns

Don MacLaughlin was born in Webster, Iowa. His father was a doctor who thought his son would follow in his footsteps. However,the nearest Don ever got to the medical profession was his portrayal of Dr. Brent in the radio and television series "Road of Life."

He majored in English and speech at Iowa Wesleyan, Northwestern and the University of Arizona. While at Arizona, he formed a group of theatrical players for semi-professional one-night stands. For financial reasons, MacLaughlin abandoned his thespian interests and returned to Webster to teach. The acting itch was too great, and a year later he tried Broadway.

After unsuccessful months in New York , he signed on as a deckhand aboard a freighter to Singapore. Upon his return to New York, he met Mary Prugh, a newspaper woman,whom he later married. He credits a major part of his success as an actor to his wife. Prompted by her, he made the rounds of casting agents and producers and finally launched his career in the Broadway production of "The Fifth Season." In the hit musical "South Pacific," he Played Commander Harbison during the latter months of the show's long run.

He has been a familiar voice on radio, having appeared in most of the major dramatic series. His most famous creation was that of David Harding in the popular "Counterspy" series. He is an original member of the cast of "As the World Turns" (April 2, 1956).

MacLaughlin's family lives in Connecticut, but he lives in a Manhattan apartment during his work week. He has three adult children, Douglas, Janet and Britton. MacLaughlin likes theatre-going and photography. His photo work has been published in several magazines. He is 6' tall, weighs 180 pounds and has gray hair and blue eyes. Birthday: November 24.

What You Want To Know?

Q. Here's a request for a little TV trivia, which I hope you can come up with. What was the name of the TV game show on which parents competed with their children for points? And, even harder, who was the master of ceremonies? We've been trying to think of his show and the M.C. for weeks. - Mr. and Mrs. L.M., Fort Wayne, Ind.

A. You're thinking of "The Generation Gap," which was hosted by Dennis Wholley.

Q. Is Vincent Price going to star in a series based on Edgar Allen Poe stories for TV? I have seen Mr. Price in many movies based on Poe horror stories and there's no one better in the parts. If he is going to star in such a series, when will it begin? - Mrs. T.M., Elizabeth, N.J.

A. Vincent Price is still making films based on the Poe stories. He has no intentions of starring in a TV series at the present time.

Q. I understand from reading an article on "Gunsmoke" that James Arness was given the role of Matt Dillon on the say-so of John Wayne. Is this true? L.A., Memphis, Tenn.

A. "Gunsmoke" was offered to John Wayne as a TV series but he declined the offer. However, he did suggest the producers test James Arness for the role of Dillion and the rest is history.

Q. Are any of the old western movies, the ones starring Tom Mix and Tex Ritter and Sunset Carson, ever shown on TV? I am a fan of these old movie westerns and I look for them on TV but so far, I haven't seen them. — M.D., Huntington, W.Va.

A. Although these vintage western movies are available for TV showings, they are seldom telecast these days. Check your local TV station about the possibility of scheduling some of these films.

Glenn Ford Did It And He's Glad

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) The men who run the TV networks are no dummies, even though sometimes it may look that way. There's method in their murky programming.

They know, for example, just who watches "demographics" is what they call the science of measuring the type of audience they get. And demographics these days indicates that here are a lot of older folks glued to the millions of living room theaters.

Perry Lafferty of CBS once told me that, given a choice between Dustin Hoffman and Glenn Ford as a series star, he wouldn't hestitate — he'd sign up Ford, because the bulk of the audience would rather see him.

So he went out and did just that, now Glenn Ford is starring in Cade's County and it looks like Lafferty knew what he was doing.

Like many other top movie names, Ford turned down many TV bids before he actually succumbed.

"I could kick myself," Ford says, "that I didn't do this three years ago. I'm having fun."

He says when he finally made the decisions to try TV, they gave him a choice of three formats a doctor, a lawyer or a western sheriff. He took the latter.

"I didn't want to spend my whole working day in a hospital," he says, "and as for the lawyer show, there were too many long speeches."

Ford is famous around Hollywood, and always has been, for cutting his own dialogue. He believes that most movies are too talky, and he has a rule of thumb - no speeches over four lines.

An of-repeated story around town is that Ford as well as the other movie into-TV actors, such as James Garner, James Stewart and Rod Taylor - have made the move because of lack of movie work. Ford says that isn't true, as far as he is concerned.

He says that TV is "where the action is today." And he isn't particularly worried about whether or not he makes it although- obviously, he'd rather it was a success than a failure.

"But if it fails," he says, "I can's see it hurting me any more than some of the miserable pictures I've done."

Sam Cade, the county sheriff he plays on the series, is, he says. a composite of all the western characters he's ever done.

"When I said I'd do it," he says, "they ran off all my westerns, and took a bit from each.

He says he hasn't been surprised at anything he's found in TV shooting, except for one over-all bit of amazement - That it can be done as well as it has been done in the time they have.

Cade's County is 20th Century-Fox's big one, and they are rumored to be spending more on it than on all the studio's other TV shows (Room 222, Nanny and the Professor and Arnie) combined.
